THE DECADE IN REVIEW

Opening of Interstate 22 among top stories of past decade

Cheers, tears, prayers for 2020: A new decade is underfoot for ALL
By JENNIFER COHRON
Daily Mountain Eagle

When the decade begins, the people of Walker County still couldn't reach Birmingham via Interstate 22, downtown Jasper wasn't a lovely place and no one was talking about opioid abuse as a local problem, much less a national epidemic. Here are 10 stories that defined the decade of the 2010s.

UMass Boston's independent student newspaper

Libel victory for student editor seen as wider free press win

In what's being seen as a free press victory for all Massachusetts journalists and news organizations, the state's top court dismissed a libel suit against the news editor of the UMass Boston student newspaper. The Supreme Judicial Court ruling upheld the principle that reporting on official public statements cannot be considered libelous.

NLRB announces big changes to Quickie Election Rule

The National Labor Relations Board is modifying certain deadlines and timeframes for resolving particular disputes under the "Quickie Election Rule." Attorney Mike Zinser says these changes will restore the First Amendment rights of employers to communicate both sides of the issues before union elections.
