All newspaper employees are encouraged to share their thoughts in this brief survey

All newspaper employees (managers and non-managers) are encouraged to participate in a quick America's Newspapers survey on The Future of Remote Working. Publishers and managers: Share the survey link with your staffs and encourage them to take part.

As newspaper executives begin making decisions about whether their staffs will continue working from home, will return to the office or take part in a hybrid model, these survey results will help to give a good feel for what other newspapers are doing.
