NOW IT CAN BE TOLD: During a visit to a New Jersey guitar shop in 1988, senior Mike Morgér ran into rock legend Eddie Van Halen. After hearing Mike play a few rock riffs, Eddie remarked. "Hey man, yoù re not bad. If I ever retire, you can take my place in the band."

Pack a waste-free lunch

According to some studies, a child taking a disposable lunch to school will create an average of 67 pounds of trash per school year. That's a big and expensive load for schools to haul to the landfill each year. Here's some simple tips:

■ Pack food in reusable containers. Avoid plastic bags, plastic wrap, aluminum foil and prepackaged foods whenever

■ Use a refillable drink bottle instead of disposables.

■ Use a cloth napkin instead of paper.

■ Pack reusable utensils instead of disposables.

Organ Pipe: Life on the Edge

Text by Carol Ann Bassett, Photos by Michael Hyatt (University of Arizona Press, $13.95)

Author Carol Ann Bassett explores Organ Pipe National Monument in southwestern Arizona, along the Mexican border, in this fourth book in the Desert Places Series.

Bassett camps in the park to closely witness its plants, animals and remnants of prehistoric culture.

She watches rain fill the washes, bats pollinate the cactus and desert tortoises graze.

"If solitude is a meditation on the world and tranquility transforms us. then Organ Pipe for me is the natural heartbeat of the desert." Bassett

Sweets harm teeth all year

Por kids, Halloween is all about flaunting great costumes and indulging in candy. But it also means an overload of treats that taste good but can be harmful to children's teeth.

The truth is, a high-sugar diet isn't restricted to Halloween alone. Candy, soda and other high-sugar foods that kids consume every day are causing them to get cavities more often.

Here are some tips from New York City Sutton Place Dental Associates pediatric dentist Dr. Mina Elahi that will help kids smile healthy and happy throughout the year:

- To view brushing in a more positive light, try a colorful, fun and kid-friendly toothbrush.
- Don't pour on the paste. A pea-sized dollop of fluoride toothpaste is plenty, even for most grown-up mouths.
- New toothpastes designed specifically for children offer the fluoride and fun flavors kids like.
- Try brushing with a two-minute timer. It lets kids know exactly how long to brush and can create a fun diversion.
- Make tooth brushing more of a family-time activity, and brush your teeth when your kids do.
- Schedule regular appointments with your pediatric dentist and ask questions.

bout 150 Arizona schools have federal money available to help families pay for private tutoring.

Not many parents are taking advantage of the offer.

Last year, federal officials required struggling schools to offer free, private tutoring to students who are falling behind in math and reading. Only 125 students signed up.

Paul Koehler, director of WestEd public policy research group, said the free tutoring program is new, for parents, providers and schools, and it will take time to be put to good

"Districts are just getting used to implementing this law; it's new to everybody," Koehler said, referring to the No Child Left Behind Act, which calls for schools where whose son, 16, is now a junior at Mesa's Westwood High School.

Some of the tutoring providers have blamed Arizona schools for the low number of students who use the program. They say schools do not clearly inform parents about their rights to free private tutoring under the No Child Left Behind Act. Others said schools are too disorganized to carry out their duty as a liaison between parents and the tutoring companies.

Huntington Learning Centers, a 27-yearold New Jersey-based corporation, offers tutoring in 37 states. It has been tutoring kids in the Phoenix area since the early 1980s and has four Valley sites.

Three years ago, the Arizona Department of Education approved it to tutor children under the free program, but Huntington hasn't seen one child yet. Huntington Vice President Russell Miller said he has attempted to call eligible schools but hasn't had much luck.

Guide to tutoring

Here is a guide on free tutoring to determine if a child is eligible for federally or state-funded tutoring programs.

Federal tutoring money for children attending poorly performing schools.

- Federal education officials grade every school as passing or failing to make Adequate Yearly Progress, a formula based on student test scores.
- M Any district with schools "in improvement" must set aside up to 20 percent of its federal money to pay for free private tutoring.
- The schools must notify parents that they can apply for tutoring, allow parents to select from a list of about "

BUMPER TO BUMPER

Bumper to Bumper will get the answers to your commuting questions each Friday in The Arizona Republic.

Are there any plans to widen 67th Avenue from Happy Valley Road south to Pinnacle Peak Road?

- Cher Dohrman There are plans to widen that stretch of 67th Avenue. The city of Peoria and Maricopa County are in the rough planning stages of the project, said Roger Ball of the Maricopa County Transportation Department. Construction will not get under way on the 1.1mile portion of road for at least a year.

I've heard you have to be 18 to get a driver's license, but m some of my friends are driving already at 17. How old do you really have to be before you can get a driver's license?

It is true that you cannot get a regular driver's license until age 18. There are two other options though for younger drivers wanting to get on the road.

Young people who are 15 years and 7 months old can obtain an instructional permit. The permit allows the person to drive as long as a regularly licensed driver is in the car with him or her. A permit is valld for one year.

If you are at least 16 and younger than 18, you may be eligible to get a graduated license. To qualify, the driver has to have had a permit for five months and completed a driver education program or have a parent certify in writing that the teen has completed 25 hours of supervised instruction, including five hours of night driving.

After passing a road test, the graduated license allows unrestricted driving, without another licensed driver in the vehicle.

VALLEY DETOURS

The East Valley is getting a heavy dose of freeway closures and rubberized asphalt this weekend. Eastbound Interstate 10 will be closed between the Superstition Freeway and Ray Road from 9 p.m. today to 5 a.m. Monday. To avoid anticipated traffic backups along eastbound I-10 near the Broadway Curve, drivers should consider alternate routes such as the castbound Red Mountain Freeway to the southbound Loop 101 in Tempe.

Red Mountain Freeway 32nd Street to I-10/Arizona 51 interchange

Westbound lanes of Loop 202 will be closed from 7 p.m. Saturday to 5 a.m. Monday while crews add rubberized asphalt. The work also means the westbound Loop 202 ramps to I-10 and northbound Arizona 51 will be closed. --- Detour Traffic will exit at 32nd Street, with drivers using either Washington Street or McDowell Road as alternate routes. Drivers are encouraged to exit well ahead of 32nd Street to avoid delays.

Arizona 51 Highland Avenue

Restriction

Southbound Arizona 51 will be narrowed to two tanes at Highland Avenue from 11 p.m. Saturday to 5 a.m. Sunday while crews install a light pole along the freeway.

--- Detour Minimal delays are expected through the area. Department of Public Safety officers will be on the scene to monitor traffic in and around the work zone.

Grand Avenue

Opening

The Arizona Department of Transportation says that by the end of this weekend, weather permitting, crews will open the second of two bridge sections carrying Grand Avenue traffic over the intersection of Camelback Road and 43rd Avenue. The two lanes of southeast-bound traffic will use the second bridge on a permanent basis. The $20.7 million project has eliminated the old six-sided intersection in the area.

REGIONAL OUTLOOK

- U.S. 93: A section of U.S. 93 from Arizona 97 to 14 miles south of Wikieup will be restricted at times, mostly Mondays through Fridays from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., as construction crews work to build a four-lane divided highway: DPS officers and flag crews are on site, and the speed limit is reduced to 35 mph in some areas. Drivers are urged to watch for construction equipment.
- Arizona 86: The westbound shoulder will be closed starting eight miles west of Tucson over to the Arizona 286 junction for a pavement improvement project. Drivers are urged to be aware of workers and equipment. This phase of the project should last until mid-November.

ACTS OF KINDNESS

Thanks for the TLC

I would like to thank Robert Hernandez and Carolyn from the Interfaith Community Care Center for the patience, respect and tender loving care they showed my mother, Esther Skutt. She is in the middle stage of Alzheimer's disease. They operate a group center that keeps her active, mentally and physically. Without their care and compassion, my mother would be in a full-care facility or further along in her stage of Alzheimer's due to a lack of stimula-

Carolyn and Robert are wonderful people! I can never thank them enough for making my mother's life more dignified.

Great neighbor, friend

I would like to write the name of my dear friend and neighbor, Bebe Brokop, in the sky. In lieu of that, I will share with you what Bebe did for us yesterday.

As the caregiver 24-7 for my seriously ill husband, removing the many weeds sprouting up through the gravel in our large front yard, or even calling my yardman to do so, has not been on my priority list.

Recently when I raised the garage doorto fetch The Arizona Republic from the driveway, there was Bebe pulling and bagging all the weeds from our yard. I laughed with tears in my eyes when I saw her. She said, "I wanted to do something for you, and I knew these weeds were driving you crazy."

Perceptive and caring, Bebe is class, and When I see my front yard, my spirits are raised, my heart is warmed by her act of kindness.

By Kristin Park Special for The Republic

Two days after Linda Schmidt returned to work from her maternity leave, she got a devastating phone call. Her 10-weekold baby boy, Skyler Kirby Schmidt, had suddenly stopped breathing while staying at a baby-sitter's home.

Paramedics were unable to revive him.

"It was four months before the medical examiner informed us that he'd had a rare form of pneumonia that is xery deceptive because there may not be any apparent symptoms," said Schmidt, 36, of Peo-

"Volunteering for MISS helps me keep my son's memory alive and helps me feel like I can help others," Schmidt said.

About two years after joining MISS, Schmidt expanded her volunteer work to include peer contact. She now spends time providing support to parents grappling with their loss.

"I just listen and let them know they're not alone," Schmidt said. "Losing a child is so isolating."

When one family recently lost a twin infant, Schmidt helped the mom by dressing the baby for burial, taking a final handprint and a lock of hair.

Cacciatore said, "Linda is amazing. For her to give so much of her time and effort to help the families is just incredible. We would not function without her."

Parents ask school board to do what's right for the large kindergarten class

By Julie Ann Madden

Even though two mothers isked the Akron-Westfield School Board members to hire a full-time Kindergarten teacher, the board could only authorize hiring a halftime teacher due to financial limits

"I want the school board to set a precedent," said Kim Burrack, of Akren, addressing the school board before the vote. "I want to be sure that next year if 50 children enroll in Kindergarten that the Akron-Westfield School Board will hire another teacher."

"If I can't count on that, then I will have a decision to make," she aid, explaining that her son was now four years old. "Will my son attend the Akron-Westfield School or will I take him with me to Sioux.

"As a parent, I want my child to have the best opportunities for success in school and I know that he won't get that opportunity being one of 25 children in a class with one teacher," said Burrack, adding that she was basing this on her own esperience as a teacher. "I came ere tonight to tell you not only are the patents of Kindergarten children going to be watching what you do tonight but other parents as well. I vant to know that you'll make the right decision when my child comes to the Akron-Westfield School."

"I'm here tonight to urge you Kindergarten class," said Rachael Osterniver, a Head Start education manager and Akron parent. "The evidence is clear. Smaller classes can mean higher levels of student achievement at least in elementary school...carlier in life more individualized instruction is what's the most important for our children."

Ostermyer explained research pesults, which were the same as A-W's Kindergarten and fifth grade teachers and parents had resented at earlier board meetnes on class size. She added that Akron-Westfield has the highest income surtax at 14 percent in the county and is higher than neighboring school districts.

"While I'm paying one of the highest surtaxes in the county, I want to be seeing some rewan for paying so much in taxes," said Ostermyer. "I want to see that our children deserve and get the best education that we can provide them. The public is looking for the members of the school board to set a precedent, one that supports solid educational goals. If we can find money to hire an assistant golf ceach instead of reducing the nur bers of high schoolers going out for that sport, which would seem more logical to me, then I hope we can find the money to hire a third fulltime teacher to teach a classr that will be the foundation of later successes in learning."

"It's up to you whether or not you want to set a precedent of being a school board that bases all important decisions on finances or one that makes decisions based on sound educational principles," she said. "The question is not so much: are our children ready for Kinder garten because you've already told is they are not, but the real-question is: is your Kindergaeten ready for our children?

Later as the school board dis cussed the issue, Superintendent Ron Flynn explained how a third half-time Kindergarten teacher would work. The Kindergarteas would be divided into three groups in the morning when the third teacher was there. They would study reading, pre-reading, lanafternoon, the students would be divided into two sections of 23 or 24 students with teachers Lisa Harris and Chris Harvey. The students would have physical education. music, library skills, science, guidance and social studies.

Flynn said although the school district was in a tough financial spot and there was some feeling that even hiring a half-time Kindergarten and half-time fifth grade teacher is taking a couple steps backwards, be was recommending hiring a half-time Kindergarten teacher. The board had recently hired a half-time fifth grade teacher for next year

'My main motive is to make sure the reading part of education is taken care of," said Flynn, "I'm sure you could make a good argument for having someone there all day and probably some good arguments could be made for leaving it two sections all day."

My recommendation is to hire a half-time Kindergarten teacher with the understanding that if that class remains the size it is, that teacher might have to follow that class up the line for a few years. said Flynn, adding at this point, there was no change in the number of students encolled and the administration didn't foresee that number dropping over the summer.

The half-time teaching posiion would cost the district between $20,000 and $23,000 and include its share of IPERS retirement plan. social security, half the single in steance premium and the teacher's salary; he said.

Board President Jim Black asked Board Secretary Jodi Thompson how the district would finar cially end up this year. She replied that the district would have about a $140,000 surplus out of this year's dget. However, this would still leave the district in the red about $180,000 overall.

Ostermyer urged the board to size a half-time fifth grade teacher and having a full-time Kindergarten teacher instead. Because of the disciplinary problems in that fifth grade class, the board refused to ider that option

We could look at any different number of any level of school and say another teacher would help said Board Member Kirk Banks. "There are more areas than just these that have larger numbers than ideal but we have to look at the big picture befe, too."

This half-time Kindergarter teacher is probably something that is going counter to what we've been trying to do here but there's probably a need for it," said Banks. conceding be had changed his mind from last month's vote and would support a half-time Kindergarten teacher. "It's a compromise, It's a tough decision to make but it's of what we have to do with fifth grade.

Black arreed.

Ostermyer again appealed to the board that Kindergartners needed a full-time teacher.

Flynn noted there were still school districts in the United States hat maintain high standards with salf-day Kindergarten classes.

"I supported thiring a half-time Kindergarten teacher) last month." said Board Member Roger Oetken. month. I've done a little research. Common sense told me smaller classes will do better; research says the same thing...I don't think we have any other choice but to get another teacher.

When talking about any of this, parental involvement can't be understated in any of that," said Banks. "Parental involvement oces a good long way in how your kids are going to do anyway....Whatever happens whether we're talking about the Kindergarten or fifth grade class, it can't be all put on us

"But I don't know if you're that," said Black. "When these kids come through the door, we have the esponsibility to do the best we can

"All we can do is provide a renue - the best we can do with the resources we have," said Banks. and Black agreed.

Ostermyer asked if the board could assure finding a quality teacher willing to teach half-time. The response was that there were already good candidates within the

"If I do my shace at home. is (my son) going to get what he needs here," said Burrack, addne she didn't believe he would with 25 students in a classroom with one teacher. "That's not good enough...I understand why you can't do it but I want to know when ne you going to get to the point when you can...when are you going to be financially able to say we can hire the teachers we need?

"That's a tough question aid Flynn, adding with the Iowa Logislature's financial woes and ued declining enrollment, it's and to say when. He predicted the nsoftment will continue to decline over the next seven years; A-W will ssibly lose about 80 students in that time period.

Burrack responded that the way to get more parents to send their children to A-W was "by being a school that does the right things

Every parent needs to decide if their child is doing as good as he can do or can he do better elsewhere, said Banks. "If any child is not doing well, it is up to the purent

All we can do here is provide best that this district can do with the resources we have," said

As the discussion continued Black interpreted and called for a

Teachers respond to school board members' suggestions

By Julie Ann Madden

With the Akron-Westfield School District's budget so tight and already having 59 Kindergarten-aged children signed up for the 2004-2005 school year, the school board weighed its options to meet. the needs of these children as well per? as the needs of the district's taxpoy-

At its June 16 meeting, the board voted 6-1 to hire an additional half-time Kindergarten teacher. Therefore, there will be two full-time Kindergarten teachers, a half-time Kindergarten teacher and a full-time Discovergatten

"It's a step in the right direction," said 21-year veteran Akron-Westfield Kindergarten teacher Lisa Harris after the meeting.

There's a lot to think about," said A-W Kinderparten teacher Chris Harvey, who's been teaching for 17 years. "There's a lot of work ahead of us. We need to think about planning the schedule."

There will be some challenges to figure that out," said Harris.

Oftentimes it sounds good until you get it on paper," said

We're still going to have large numbers part of the day," said Harris. "It'll be up to us to creatively plan and problem solve to make that time as effective as it can be. We'll "Definitely," said Harvey.

At a previous school board meeting, a board member had suggested eliminating Discovergarten and just having three sections of Kinderparten, Therefore, The Akren Hometowner asked the Kindergarten teachers and Discovergarten teacher Aubie Garrett. who has seven years of experience. what's the difference between Kindergarten and Discovergatten? Is it necessary to have both programs?

Although the teachers gave their answers before the final vote was taken. The Akron Hometowner staff was unable to print the story before the vote because of technical problems. However, the staff felt its readers still would like to know what the teachers' answers were.

Discovergarten is a type of kindergarten class designed for kindergartners who may show a gap in one or more of the developmenta areas which are social, emotional, cognitive, motor, speech and langauge, they explained.

Each year, some children don't meet the district's "Kindergarten Readiness Standard."

Kindercarten Readiness testing is given at Kindergarten Roundup each spring. Children of Kindergar ten age - those who will be age 5 by Sept. 15 of the upcoming school year - are checked for their level of cognitive skills, which includes:

- · Alphabet Letter Recogniion. Does the child know his or her ABCs? Can the child recognize alphabet letters randomly selected from flash cards?
- Name Writing. Can the child write his or her name?
- · Recognition of Numbers from 1 to 10. Can the child count verbally from 1 to 10? Can the child recognize the numbers on flash rards? Does the child understand counting items such as how many pieces of bubble gum are there in a group on the table?
- Identification of Colors. Can the child tell you the names of the

The children are also tested by Area Education Agency professionals for speech, language and bearing abilities, and the school nurse checks their vision.

"There is no magic number Discovergatten or Kindergatten." said Harvey. "It's just so we can see a base line of where they are so we can take them from where they come in and oo from there."

What we do is look at the whole child," said Harris, "We don't just look at if they know their ABCs. We never say 'they don't been the same week. You cannot know their ABCs so they can't come to Kindergarten; they have to be in Discovergarten." We only give a recommendation."

What we feel is the important part of our job is helping them get off to a good start," said Harris "It's so important that those first years are positive, that they aren't frustrated, that they have a good self-concept and can go into their future years of school --"

'That's where class size is such a key factor," said Harvey. "If you're just managing a high teacher-pupil ratio, you're not going to have success with those kinds of things that you do with a smaller

The teachers know what doesn't work: large class sizes.

In the 1997-1998 wheel year. Harvey had 28 Kindergartners and Harris 27. The first part of the year. they had a teacher's side to assist them but when she went on miternity leave, she wasn't replaced.

The teachers went to the school board at the end of the year requesting additional staff because It's hands-on. The reason we do the next class was nearly the same (hands-on teaching) is because size. The school board approved an additional full-time Kindergarten

One current example is this year's fourth grade class. The class had been divided into three sections for Grades K-3. As fourth graders, they were broken into only two classes. In May, parents went to the school board along with the class' teachers to request additional staff for them next year as fifth graders. The board approved a half-time teacher for next year.

Since the early 1990s we've quired quite a bit of ground wn there (in the Nature Conserincy)," said Nature Conservancy (Director) Scott Moats, "A little over 3,000 acres (deed and title or fee and title), all told in the eserve is a little over 7,000 peoected acres...that's caused some concern from some people from amore and things I've heard."

Councilman John Lucken asked the "how much money" question.

Moats said they support the fire department by paying their taxes and have given donations such as the recent $1,500 for the firefighters new grass rig vehicle.

We'll continue to support whatever we can," said Moats. "We are private nonprofit organization. As you guys are probably aware, hard to come by. It's all donor driven, if we have free money, that's an opportunity for us to continue to do but I can't guarantee that."

Councilman Eugene Stabe asked if there were wild-lands fire grant monies available.

"It's through the National Fire Plan," said Moats. "There are some opportunities."

The Loess Hills was one of 25 sites in the nation selected to participate in the fire burning net-work, explained Moats. The word "yoga" is derived from the Sanskrit root "yuj," which means "to yoke," "to unite" or "to be whole."

There are numerous styles of yoga, but the ultimate goal in each is the balance of body, mind and spirit.

Yoga - it's old and hot at the same time.

The practice of yoga dates back some 5,900 years. In pursual of fitness and, in some instances, serenity, St. Louisans have been practicing yoga at local YMCAs and at yoga studies—and in one instance, in a room above a restaurant — for at least 30 years. New yega afficienades here also have the option of experiencing yogs in rooms heated to 90 degrees or more, a practice known as "hot yoga." Yoga Source, a new, 3,000 square-foot studio at 1500 South Big Bend Boulevard in Richmond Heights, opened a hot yega room last mouth.

"This is new to St. Louis," says co-owner Nancy Donohoo. "The room is heated from 99 to 95 degrees, and that allows the body to do so much more.

It's a purifying and detoxifying practice, for people who want a more vigorous style of yega."

Elizabeth Holum, a senior account executive at a local ad agency, signed up for hot yoga immediately.

"My friends in New York who dance on Broadway skip their dance classes to go to hot yoga, and I wanted to try it," says Holtam. "I like it. The room is hot, and you get your heart rate up and sweat a lot. It's really cleansing, and it has a weird but addictive power to it. I wish I could go more often."

Holors, 34, poes to hot yuga twice a week and takes a class in the conventional studie at Yuga Source once a week. She has been taking classes for about two years. See Your, DEV

Dropping temperatures bring a prime time for fishing

Next weekered is Labor Day, the unofficial end to summer. Most kids are back in school, football season is underway, and for many fishing is notonger a top priority. The official end is September 22. Even that date doesn't have much impact on fishing as I'm fairly sare that fish door observe the same calendar that we dis. Bather they simply reselt to seasonal changes as they occur.

Driggs will likely adopt impact fees

By Mike Polhamus

Straining its infrastructure after rapid recent growth, the City of Driggs labors to build funding mechanisms to strengthen its financial integrity. An upcoming project for the city council, open to the public on June 17, requires installation of a capital improvement plan into the comprehensive plan. This prepares ground for an impact fee ordinance, to reinforce the city's budgets for roads, parks and fire protection.

The capital improvement plan describes the city's current level of service in these three areas, dividing total capital investments from each to determine how much the city has invested per resident for current capital facilities. These numbers set a maximum limit for impact fees specific to the three categories that may be assessed under the proposed ordinance, set for public hearing in July.

These fees, intended to help growth pay for economic shortfalls it may cause, will apply to all new buildings at the time a building permit is issued. The impact fees can only be used to expand capacity to meet demands resulting from new growth, without upgrading the quality of services at the same time. The fees may be used only to maintain this current level of service in the specific services for which they are collected. Improvements, and additions to services beyond what Driggs currently offers per resident, are ineligible for

Bergmeyer gets extension to settle debt

By Mike Polhamus

A court order last week stayed foreclosure of Bergmeyer Manufacturing for two more months. Owner Mori Bergmeyer negotiated this extension to satisfy debts owed to creditors other than the primary creditor, the Bank of Jackson Hole.

Although the bank was granted possession of the company's manufacturing equipment and inventory, the property itself remains in Bergmeyer's hands for now. The company closed its doors on in mid April, the result of what Bergmeyer called a "perfect storm" of multiple simultaneous mis-

Stock market swoon spurs many to snap wallets shut, which ripples throughout the economy

Some-things and just so righty you can't bear to look. That's the stock market those days. Louses of more than 80 percent during the last youe—the percent in the last week adone—have spread such shock and four that some Americans can't even look at their retirement accounts to their retirement accounts to their retirement accounts to the losses on "just on paper." People feel less wooftly, and their material to the losses are "just on paper." People feel less wooftly and their material found statements confirm that it's not just psychology.

As a rosult, they're snap-ping their wallets shut. This is doubly troubling news for the U.S. where consumer spending represents To per-cent of gross domestic prod-wet. PARK CITY, UTAH - Fights over water rights are nothing new for the governors of the Western United

"Whiskey is for drinking and water is for fighting" is a familiar expression for a majority of the region's residents, said Colorado Gov. Bill Ritter. But the scarce resource holds new importance today. And managing water in a changing world opened the discussion during the first day of the 25th annual meeting of the Western Governors' Association in Park City on Sunday.

Part of the problem is that political boundaries and watershed boundaries don't match, said Dr. Peter Gleick, cofounder and president of the environmental research group Pacific Institute in Oakland, Calif. For example, the Colorado River stretches across seven states and into Mexico.

He added that today's policy makers

energizes activists

The slaughter of 100 sled dogs in Canada has re-centragized efforts by some animal activists to ban or boycott ding sled rides, a popular activity among touriots in many winter vacation spots, from New England to Minnesota to Alaska.

The dogs belonged to Howling Dog Tours Whistler Inc., and its parent company Outdoor Ad-ventures Whistler, located in British Columbia. The dogs were killed last April by a company em-ployee. The incident came to light recently when the employee applied for worker's compensation, saying he suffered post-transmets stress after shooting the dogs and slitting their throats.

Food stamp rolls reach historic levels

Nationwide, one in seven Americans currently receives help from the government to put food on the table. All but 14 states saw dooble-digit spikes in the number of people getting food stamps over the one-year period that ended in November 2010. But Idabo had the largest one-year increase in the country, 28 percent, according to the latest gevernment figures.

Idabo even edged ahead of Nevada, which has the country's highest unemployment rate at 14.5 percent. Idabo's yearenge of yearent latest closer to the national average of y percent. But Idabo's unemployment rate is three times higher than it was in 2007.

The record surge in Idaho is due to more than just the recession itself. Idaho has a history of being a somewhat welfare-resistant state. Before the recession began, only half the residents who were eligible actually came in and applied for food stamps. That number climbed to 55 percent in 2008, but it is still below the national average of

Could shorter school weeks save money?

SOME SCHOOL DISTRICTS ARE INVESTIGATING THAT OPTION.

Associated Press

IRENE, S.D. - When the nearly 300 students of the Irene-Wakonda School District returned to school this week, they found a lot of old friends, teachers and familiar routines awaiting them. But one thing was missing: Friday classes.

This district in the rolling farmland of southeastern South Dakota is among the latest to adopt a four-day school week as the best option for reducing costs and dealing with state budget cuts to education.

"It got down to monetary reasons more than anything else," Superintendent Larry Johnke said. The $50,000 savings will preserve a vocational education program that otherwise would have been scrapped.

The four-school week is an increasingly visible example of the impact of state budget problems on rural education. This fall, fully one-fourth of South Dakota's districts will have moved to some form of the abbreviated schedule. Only Colorado and Wyoming have a larger proportion of schools using a shortened week. According to one study, more than 120 school districts in 20 states, most in the west, now use four-day weeks.

The schools insist that reducing class time is better than the alternatives and can be done without sacrificing academic performance. Yet not all parents are convinced.

"The kids are going to suffer," said Melissa Oien, who has four children in the school and serves as vice president of the parentteacher organization. "Of course they will. They're missing a whole day of school."

WASHINGTON - News flash: Congressional Republicans want to raise your taxes.

Impossible, right? GOP lawmakers are so virulently anti-tax, surely they will fight to prevent a payroll tax increase on virtually every wage-earner starting Jan. 1, right?

Apparently not.

Many of the same Republicans who fought hammer-and-tong to

The tax break extension they oppose is sought by President Barack Obama. Unlike proposed changes in the income tax, this policy helps the 46 percent of all Americans who owe no federal income taxes but who pay a "payroll tax" on practically every dime they earn.

There are other differences as well, and Republicans say their stand is consistent with their goal of long-term tax policies that will spur employment and lend greater certainty to the economy.

"It's always a net positive to let taxpayers keep more of what they earn," says Rep. Jeb Hensarling, "but not all tax relief is created equal for the purposes of helping to get the economy moving again. The Texas lawmaker is on the House GOP leadership team.

YOUR CHAIR WANTS TO KILL YOU

DON'T LET IT WIN. Whether tending our crops or hunting wild boar, humans have fived on their feet for most of history. But with the advent of TV, computers and the desk job, we're sitting down more than ever before: 9.3 hours a day, even more time than sleeping (7.7 hours). Our bodies weren't built for that, and it's starting to take its toll.

THE DEATH RISK

Someone who sits more than six hours a day is up to 40 percent likelier to die within 15 years than someone who sits less than three hours. Even with exercise.

HOW MUCH WE SIT

9.3 hours

A breakdown of average physical activity in our waking hours:

- = 9.3 hours a day sedentary
- 6.5 hours a day doing low-intensity physical activity such as walking or standing.
- 0.7 hours a day of medium vigorous physical activity such as running or playing sports

MORE SITTING, MORE FAT

It's clear that sitting is harmful: but how?

Sitting makes us fat. And we're sitting more. Obese people sit for 2.5 more hours a day than thin people. One in three Americans is obese. Between 1980 and 2000:

- Exercise rates stayed the same
- . Sitting time increased 8 percent
- Obesity doubled

HOW IT WRECKS YOUR BODY

Sitting expends almost no energy. Chewing gum expends almost twice as much energy as sitting.

As soon as you sit:

- Electrical activity in the leg muscles shuts off
- Calorie burning dips to one a minute
   Enzymes that help break down fat drop 90 percent

After two hours:

- Good cholesterol drops 20 percent

After 24 hours:

 Insulin effectiveness drops 24 percent and the risk of diabetes rises

GET OUT OF YOUR CHAIR ALIVE

People with sitting jobs have twice the rate of cardiovascular disease as people with standing jobs. For many of us, sitting for eight hours a day at our job is inevitable, But it's the extra sitting outside of work that turns a serious problem deadly.

The recommended 30 minutes of activity per day is not enough. Interrupt sitting whenever you can. Walking burns three hen the winds began to blow on the afternoon of Thursday, August 22, Ada Plum looked up from her lunch and muttered, "Oh, dear — I hope my little Keekee won't be caught outside in the rain." Keekee, Ada's 2-year-old Siberian husky, hated getting wet, preferring to spend her days lounging beneath the old oak rolltop desk in Ada's living room.

Sadly, Keekee was outside. Caught in the impending storm. Soon to die in a raging twister the likes of which Mudflap hadn't seen in 57 years.

Ada finished her cheeseburger and began sweeping up the crumbs. She headed for the exit of Mudflap Community Hospital, were she works as a bedpan disposal engineer. She looked around for her umbrella.

Gone.

She looked around for her car keys.

Gone.

She looked for her raincoat, her galoshes, her orange vinvl rain hat.

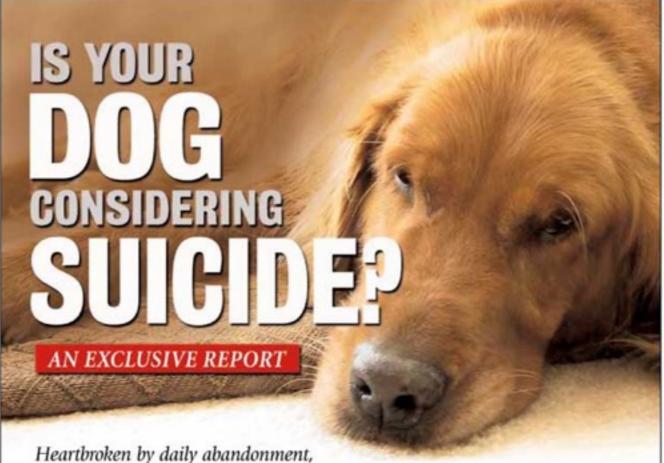

All gone, poles begin to sway and the traffic lights begin to crash down onto the road, and she thought to herself: "Gee, I hope KeekeGone, as if to say, "Stay inside, Ada. Please. Stay inside."

But Ada was determined to venture out into the storm. And this would be a good time to mention, dear reader, that this story is complete and utter hooey. I'm sitting here trying to fill the space with real-looking words, knowing that a few of you — just a precious few — well, that may be an exaggeration, since I don't know how precious you actually are — but anyway, like I was saying, I'm trying to fill out this column with realistic-looking prose so it looks like an actual news page, even though in truth I'm parked here in my quiet Oregon office typing on a cool January afternoon. But enough about me. Let's continue our story, shall we?

Ada found her keys, and her boots, and she walked out into the rain. The wind had picked up, blowing more fiercely by the minute, and it slapped her through the parking lot like a big, wet hand. She lunged inside her Volvo and started the engine.

Raw tomatoes recalled

Tennessee is reporting no official salmonella outbreaks connected to eating raw tomatoes, but area restaurants have stopped serving tomatoes, and grocery stores have pulled some types of tomatoes from their produce sections.

"We got a case of Roma tomatoes in, but we sent them back to our warehouse in Alabama," said Jeff Davis, general manager of Jr.'s Foodland on East Main Street in Murfreesboro. "We didn't want to take a chance."

Davis said his store still sells homegrown tomatoes, grape and cherry tomatoes The Food and Drug Administration is telling consumers to eat raw red plum, red Roma or red round tomatoes only if they were grown or harvested from these areas:

At least one Rutherford County couple believes eating Roma tomatoes made them sick.

By Liz Navratil The Denver Post

Monsoon rains and a streak of high temperatures in the 90s that finally ended Tuesday caused mosquito populations to dramatically increase along much of the northern Front Range, nearly tripling in Boulder.

While most of the pests are "nuisance mosquitoes" that don't generally carry diseases, state officials warn that August represents one of the peak periods for the hatching of mosquitoes capable of transmitting West Nile virus, which can cause flulike symptoms and sometimes death.

"This time of the summer is the most likely time to get West Nile," said Elisabeth Lawaczeck, state public health veterinarian.

State officials are testing several potential cases of West Nile, Lawaczeck said. So far, Colorado officials have confirmed only one human case. A 47-year-old Longmont woman tested positive for the illness earlier this summer and told officials she did not know where she contracted it.

Scientists continue to monitor mosquito sites across the state, collecting samples once or twice a week. Of 595 samples tested, only one — a sample taken from Weld County last week — has test-

How best to avoid West Nile virus

The key to preventing West Nile virus is to prevent mosquito bites altogether, public health workers say. They often tell people to be dutifully mindful of the D's:

DEET: Use insect repellents with this ingredient and follow the instructions carefully.

Dress: Wear long sleeves and long pants when you're outside during peak mosquito periods.

Drain: Remove stagnant water from around your house, paying special attention to flowerpots, rain barrels, puddles and clogged rain gutters.

Dusk/dawn: Avoid going outside at these times, because that's when virus-carrying mosquitoes are most active.

School district growth may be overstated

A board member questions consultant's numbers.

BY SARA WRIGHT

There might not be as many children going to school in Bluffton in coming years as has been predicted.

David Chase Beaufort County Board of Education Facilities Committee chairman, believes school district consultants have overstated encollment figures for the next five to 10 years.

If that's true, the district has more time to build new schools in Blufton than originally thought, and might not need any more schools in the northern part of the county.

The district paid DeJong and Associates $400,000 to develop a long-range plan for the school district.

Chase relieves DeJong started from the wrong baseline, an apparent mistake that calls all the firm's projections into ques-

TREASURE VALLEY - Canyon County grew by nearly 44 percent during the first decade of the century, officially recording 188,923 residents in the 2010 Census.

Caldwell pulled ahead of Lewiston, Coeur d'Alene and Twin Falls to become the sixth-largest city in the state in 2010. Nampa kept its spot as the state's secondlargest city despite rapid growth in neighboring Meridian that put the two valley communities within 7,000 people of each other.

Stocks plunge on economic news, oil fears

NEW YORK (AF) - Just when Americans put aside their fears and started buying stocks again, here come a host of reminders

Ominous news from around the world caused stocks to plummet on Thursday, sending the Dow Jones industrial average to the worst one-day drop in seven months.

Claims for unemployment insurance rose unexpectedly. A credit rating agency lowered Spain's credit grade, amplifying worries that Europe's debt crisis will worsen. China's economy showed a surprising sign of weakness - a trade deficit brought on in part by surging od prices.

And just when markets started bouncing back, Saudi police opened fire on protesters in the eastern city of Qutif, raising concerns about the stability of the oil-rich kingdom. Oil prices swung wildly, and the Dow again dipped below the 12,000 mark

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 228.48 points to close at 11.984.61.

'I have no idea'

Straight-talking Rick Scott tends to forget a lot in depositions defending his business.

Attorney Jack Ayers: Did you consider that you had made an agreement with Dr. Aboud? Rick Scott: I don't know.

You don't know? I have no idea.

Why did you write the letter? I have no idea. I don't know if I did write the letter. ... I don't know what the intention is in 1991 ... I don't know if I even said this. I don't know if I signed this. So I have no idea.

You don't know if you signed it? I don't believe I did.

Do you think it's your signature? It looks like my signature.

That would be an indication you signed it. Yes.

You're not trying to back up now and deny that you signed it, are you? I'm not saying I signed it.

You're not saying anything, are you? I have no idea if I signed this.

You can't give us any substantive testimony about that letter at all; definition of substantive is definition of substantive is.

The Georgia Southern men's basketball program took a huge hit for the upcoming season with the arrest of redshirt senior forward Eric Ferguson and recent graduate guard Brian Holmes.

Holmes, who started 29 games this past year for the Eagles, was arrested after local investigators executed a search warrant of a 111 South Apartment that was revealed to have marijuana, controlled prescription drugs and an "AR-15 style rifle" according to a police report from the Bulloch County Sheriff's Office.

Ferguson turned himself in to the Bulloch County Sheriff earlier this week after being named as the second resident of the apartment that was searched.

Both individuals were charged with possession of marijuana with intent to distribute, possession of a schedule II drug, possession of a schedule III drug,

Outta my way! I'm in a hurrrrr

In September, Robert Kevin Brown, 31, died after his truck plunged into a ravine along I-95 in Virginia.

Brown had been annoyed that traffic – at 55 mph – was moving too slowly. As he leaned out his window to make a gesture at another driver, he lost control of his vehicle.

When I think back on all the crap I learned in high school...

As another school year grinds to a halt, we asked students at Lincoln, Benson and Lakeridge high schools:

What's the one thing you learned this year that you'll remember the rest of your life?
Among the answers:

I learned how to

THE EDGE

Just how dumb are we?

We begin with the story of a survey that claims that Americans are so technologically challenged that 10 percent of them think that HTML is an STD and 27 percent think that a gigabyte is a bug. Apparently there's some concern that the study's not valid, but we believe it because we used to have a friend who worked at a computer help desk, and when he'd ask callers what kind of computer they had, a distressing number of them would say, "A gray one."

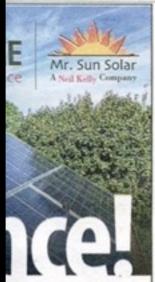

Some poor guy in New York came home and found his apartment had been cleaned out. Not in a the-maidcame-by kind of way, and not in a robbers-came-by kind of way. In an every-blessedthing-I-own-is-GONE kind of way. Turns out his landlord had hired a not-overly-picky-aboutdetails trash removal service that had gotten the apartment number wrong and taken his stuff to the dump. There's a lesson here, but we're not sure if it's "At least OUR typos don't ruin people's lives," "Landlords are evil," or "Let's blame 'Hoarders' for this," so we're settling on the ever-popular "Thank God we no longer live in New York."

In France, a disgruntled man has been shoving feces into the money slots of ATMs in some sort of vague protest against "The System." It's a protest so disgusting that even the Frenchnewspaper's entertaining reference to "caca après caca" cannot improve it. Additionally, the question of whose poop it is goes unanswered, and we can't decide if that's comforting or not, so let's just point out that these are the people who gave the world the word "debacle" and move on.

Speaking of debacles, in India, a police department with a smooth PR department said that "a technical problem" prevented officials from acting on complaints filed with the department. In this case "technical problem" means the department lost the password for the computer system logging the complaints and was unable to access it for eight years. Eight years! It's not clear if they knew what HTML is and what gigabytes are, but this story really does lend credence to that people-are-technological-morons

Back in the U.S., a man tried to rob a bank by handing a teller a note written on one of his mom's checks, apparently unaware that scribbling over your mom's name will not stop the FBI from cracking the case. He told officials his body was at the bank but his mind was not, which, turns out, does not actually get you off the hook.
