THIS IS IT! Welcome to your new Kingsbury Journal

TIM AUGHENBAUGH
Kingsbury Journal staff

You are holding the inaugural issue of the Kingsbury Journal – a new weekly newspaper formed by the merger of The De Smet News and Lake Preston Times.

As the successor of the two historical papers, the Kingsbury Journal will continue their 140-year legacy as the voice of people in the Kingsbury County area. The redesigned newspaper is the result of a seven-week effort to secure the future of these papers following their suspension at the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic.

STOP THE PRESSES

With a bold headline declaring 'THIS IS IT!', long-time publisher Dale Blegen announced the final editions of The De Smet News and Lake Preston Times on April 1, 2020.

Blegen was forced to suspend publishing due to a drop-off in advertising, which had fallen sharply in March as a result of COVID-19 precautions. As one business after another suspended operations, they also stopped advertising. The dominoes quickly fell toward the newspapers.

As reported by Blegen at the time, the newspapers went from making or losing a few thousand dollars a year, to losing $2,000 a week as the pandemic hit.

"Things were already tight as a community newspaper business, and COVID-19 was the final straw," said Blegen. "After ten years attempting to sell the papers during my retirement, I reluctantly decided to close the doors."

WE ARE NOT ALONE

Closing the doors has become increasingly common for community newspapers. In the last 12 years, over 1,800 newspapers have shut down, resulting in a loss of 20% of the nation's newspapers, according to the University of North Carolina.

After 36 years, retirement sounds good

BY DONNA PALMLUND

Dale Blegen, longtime publisher and owner of The De Smet News and Lake Preston Times, has retired after 43 years publishing the News and 36 years publishing the Times. Blegen purchased The De Smet News in 1977 and the Lake Preston Times in 1984.

Blegen, who turns 76 in June, has had his eye on retirement for the past decade. While Blegen had been trying to sell the newspapers for about 10 years, a sale never came to fruition despite occasional inquiries, and he had stepped back from the daily workings of the paper without fully retiring.

The businesses had not been turning a profit in recent years, but the COVID-19 pandemic, which brought an even bigger decrease in advertising revenue, was the proverbial straw that broke the camel's back. Blegen made the difficult decision to close both newspapers, with his final publication date April 1.

Newspaper closures are causing expanding 'news deserts' all over the country. 225 counties do not have a local newspaper. Half of all counties – 1,528 – have only one newspaper. (Source: UNC Hussman School of Journalism and Media)

Nationwide, 1,300 communities no longer have a newspaper. De Smet and Lake Preston recently joined the list.

MISSING OUT

Local newspapers have been described as the heartbeat of a community, and like a heartbeat, newspapers are often taken for granted — until they stop.

Many residents in De Smet and Lake Preston were shocked by news of the sudden closures. Over the last several weeks, they experienced what it means to lose their newspapers.

“Our whole community is lost,” said rural Lake Preston resident Barb Hasche. “I miss knowing about school happenings and being informed about what’s going on. Where else do we find information?”

Hasche also does not see social media as a substitute for the information in a local newspaper.

“People tell it like they see it on Facebook, not necessarily like it is. And you don’t always see everything online,” Hasche said.

Local governments are also finding it difficult to keep the public informed without a newspaper.

“It is so hard to get information out to the public now. It shows how much we miss the newspaper,” said De Smet Mayor Gary Wolkow.

Obituaries are another example of the variety of information that is suddenly missed. De Smet resident Debra Pommer has resorted to seeking obituaries from other sources.

“I was surprised to hear that someone died a couple weeks ago, so now I’m trying to get obituaries by searching on funeral home websites,” she said.

SECURING THE NEWSPAPERS

The development corporations from De Smet and Lake Preston began to look into ways to help bring the papers back shortly after they closed.

“As we looked deeper, we began to see big challenges. We worried we would find ourselves in the same predicament down the road as a community,” Todd Wilkinson, a member of the De Smet Development Board, said.

Wilkinson stated that newspapers everywhere are struggling, with daily papers reducing the number of days they publish and several other papers in the area for sale.

“No matter who owned the papers, all the problems remained,” Wilkinson said. “Even an experienced, well-funded operator would have trouble in this climate. And that would leave us with the risk of losing our papers again.”

To address the underlying problem, the groups started looking at the possibility of securing the papers for their communities and finding a more sustainable business model.

Throughout April, the two groups worked together to buy the newspaper buildings and businesses from previous owner Dale Blegen. The De Smet Development Corporation purchased the De Smet News building and main street lots for $55,000. The Lake Preston Development Corporation purchased the Lake Preston Times building and lot for $10,000.

In each case, the buildings were purchased for a price near their assessed tax value. As part of the building purchases, each organization received ownership of its community newspaper business at no additional cost. Blegen agreed to be responsible for any unfulfilled subscriptions should efforts to continue operations of the newspapers prove unsuccessful.

TWO PAPERS BECOME ONE

Suggestions to explore combining the two papers first arose during community meetings.

Soon after, as work began on the papers, it became clear that a combined newspaper would require less work for volunteers and increase its chance of success. Many involved started to believe it would be a better newspaper for both readers and advertisers.

A poll on May 3 conducted on each newspapers’ Facebook page showed 90% (313 of 348) of respondents supporting a more sustainable unified newspaper, with nearly identical results from both communities. The organizations decided to combine the two papers based on this and other community feedback.

“We were all surprised by the poll results. They were overwhelming. It made the decision to combine the papers much easier,” Lake Preston board member Jake Smith said.

Based on the poll and other community feedback, the organizations decided to combine the two papers.

“We heard a very consistent message. We want our newspaper back. Do what you need to do to make them sustainable,” Matt Kees, a member of the De Smet development group, said.

(Following the closures, the development corporations in De Smet and Lake Preston purchased the two newspapers to form this combined publication which will be managed with a volunteer staff.)

David Bordewyk, executive director of the South Dakota Newspaper Association (SDNA), was the first editor of the Times under Blegen's ownership, and he credits Blegen with much of his success. Bordewyk was a recent graduate of South Dakota State University in Brookings in 1984 when Blegen hired him.

"I had just graduated, but he took a chance on me. I'm obviously forever grateful," Bordewyk said. "I learned so much from him about community journalism."

Journalism was not Blegen's first career. He grew up on a farm near the tiny town of Arco, Minn. He worked at the grocery store and meat locker in Arco while attending high school in Ivanhoe. Following high school graduation, Blegen attended the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis where he took one semester of Wildlife and Fisheries Management.

After realizing that was not the path he wanted to take, Blegen returned to work at the grocery store in Arco for a time, then as a lineman for Northwestern Bell Telephone

Dale Blegen worked at a grocery store, telephone lineman and barber before deciding to take a few journalism classes — which led to a long career as a journalist.

Company before enrolling in barber college.

Blegen was working at the OK Barber Shop in Brookings when he decided to take a few journalism classes at SDSU. He earned his degree in four years while continuing to work at the barber shop, graduating in 1972 from SDSU.

"I was a non-traditional student," he said. He was 28 with a wife and young daughter when he earned his bachelor's degree in journalism.

He also worked as a reporter at The Brookings Register and for KSOO Radio before landing a position as a general reporter for The Owensboro Messenger & Inquirer in Owensboro, Ky., where he was assigned to cover stories in two counties in Kentucky and one in Indiana.

"I covered city council meetings that were held in places like gas stations," he said. Blegen explained that his employers thought that he would be good at covering agriculture stories since he was from an agricultural area.

"But," he added, "agriculture in Kentucky was a lot different than agriculture in Minnesota or South Dakota." Blegen was not impressed with life in Kentucky during the summer they lived there. "It was hot and humid. It didn't cool off when it rained. The steam would rise from the ground, and it made it hotter."

After he had been working in Kentucky for four months, Blegen got a call from a friend at The Argus Leader in Sioux Falls regarding a job opening as a markets editor. He applied and was offered the job. Along with the markets page, he took on other assignments, including writing features for the Sunday edition. Blegen noted that The Argus Leader was still using hot metal press at the time.

"It was a different process in 1972," he said.

He later worked as the news coordinator for KESD FM, a radio station in Brookings, where he had a half-hour daily broadcast.

Blegen taught a journalism class while attending graduate school at SDSU. He then purchased The De Smet News from Aubrey Sherwood in March of 1977, and the Blegen family, which now also included two young sons, moved to De Smet.

Blegen completed his master's degree in journalism in 1979, writing his thesis on Sherwood. He was the lone writer for the News until the late 1980s, when he began hiring part time writers.

"And it eventually evolved into hiring full time writers," he said.

Blegen was inducted into the South Dakota Newspaper Hall of Fame in 2011, having won numerous awards for news writing and feature writing. He served as president of the SDNA in 1990-91 and for many years was on SDNA's First Amendment Committee.

With retirement, Blegen said he and his life partner, Catherine Tritle, had planned to do more traveling, but COVID-19 may have put those plans on hold for the time being. He said they would like to visit the Pacific Northwest when they are able to.

After the sale of the two businesses, which included a brick office building in each town, Blegen commented it's the first time in more than 50 years that he has not owned a building other than his house.

"I'm glad I don't have that worry and am going to stick with that for a while," he said.

Blegen's decades of work has had a significant and long-lasting impact on the newspaper community, not just in De Smet and Lake Preston but in the surrounding area, as well.

"Dale is an extraordinary community journalist and newspaper man. I think a lot of him," Bordewyk said.

costs, but the adverse business climate that caused the papers to close their doors remains.

The new Kingsbury Journal inherits the same financial challenges as its predecessors, and there is no way to predict how long these conditions will last. Initially, the paper will operate with loans from the two development corporations.

In order to minimize payroll costs, a team of over 20 volunteers has formed to report, write, edit, take pictures, sell advertising, produce, publish and distribute the Kingsbury Journal. Along with this, they are also modernizing operations in order to reduce costs and streamline the amount of work required to publish the paper every week.

"We recognize the challenges we face as a volunteer organization," said Tim Aughenbaugh, one of the volunteers involved in bringing back the papers. "But the range of skills and diversity on the team is also a big benefit. We have been surprised by the interest and talent of volunteers."

Many volunteers have seemed excited to help with the effort.

"It is all new and we are all learning, but I personally find it invigorating," said Penny Warne, a past English teacher who volunteers to help edit copy.

While it's still early days, the team and its new systems are beginning to come together.

"We've started to think of ourselves as a volunteer news service, much like a volunteer fire department or volunteer ambulance service," said Aughenbaugh. "Losing our papers made us realize that keeping people informed and providing a record of our schools and communities is a vital part of the community itself. This may be the only way it gets accomplished in rural communities like ours."

Blegen agreed that the new approach could be beneficial to keeping the new paper running.

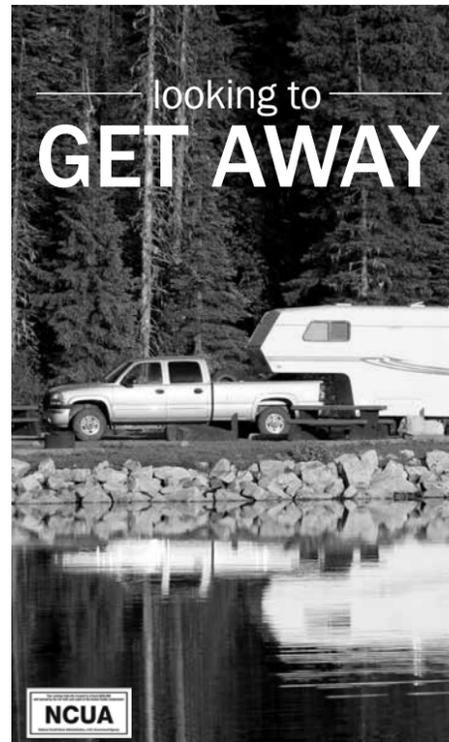

"The newspaper will benefit from a different model. This model could be one that works for other communities," he said.

WHAT'S NEXT

In the coming months, the combined Kingsbury Journal will be placed in a new organization for public benefit and overseen by its own board of directors. The new organization may be formed as a not-for-profit after an investigation of advantages.

Assuming future profitability, the paper will adopt a profit-sharing plan for volunteers and could pay part-time staff or lease the business to an operator.

In all cases, the newspaper will remain under the control of a public benefit organization, securing the newspaper for our communities into the future.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Sink Or Swim? You Decide.

Here we go! Our first edition of the Kingsbury Journal. There are a number of potential reasons you decided to obtain this paper. It might be because you already had a subscription to the former De Smet News or Lake Preston Times, so you did not have a say in the matter. You are the ones who are going to help us volunteers feel good by adding to our distribution numbers. Thank you!

To our non-subscribers who chose to read this paper, perhaps you wanted to show your support in our efforts to keep this paper alive, or maybe amid the COVID pandemic, you find yourself with extra time on your hands.

I bet for many of you, though, your reasoning to purchase this paper can be summarized in one word: curiosity. You want to know if we sank or swam, and you want to decide that by coming up with the conclusion yourself. Well, here I am writing this first paragraph just trying to decide if I should use “might” or “may” when listing for you those potential reasons you might or may have decided to pick up this paper so needless to say, you are in for a treat.

It may end up being a treat that your grandma gives you where you think it is a chocolate chip cookie only to bite into it and find...you guessed it...a raisin, but a treat nonetheless.

So, sink or swim? That is something you get to decide, but just as you might show encouragement and grace to a child learning how to swim for the first time, we are asking for your grace and support as we navigate these waters. Maybe we just found a buoy and are holding on for dear life. Either way, we made it! Thank you for buying the first edition of what we hope to be many more to come.

Our Plan to Ramp Up Testing

AS COMMUNITIES WORK their way back to normal, one of the tools in our fight against COVID-19 that we will continue to ramp up is mass testing. Earlier this week, Secretary of Health Kim Malsam-Rysdon laid out our plan to conduct testing events over the next four weeks.

GOVERNOR'S DESK

KRISTI NOEM

First, we'll test our most vulnerable population: residents and staff at nursing homes and connected assisted living centers. The first week will focus on the approximately 7,400 individuals at nursing homes in counties with substantial community spread. Week two will be nursing homes in all other counties, roughly another 10,200 South Dakotans. Then, weeks 3 and 4 will focus on the remaining assisted living centers, approximately 4,300 folks for each of those weeks.

Though we still have some finalizing to do, none of this could be possible without the nursing home and assisted living industry. I want to thank them; they have been fantastic in helping with the planning for this testing. We expect these next four weeks will be a heavy lift, but it's important that we try and identify whether the virus has found its way into these vulnerable facilities, so we can work to slow its spread.

Second, we'll also conduct mass testing in some of our tribal communities. For a variety of reasons, these folks could also be among the most vulnerable population as well, and we want to do everything we can to inhibit the spread in tribal communities. Our first event will be on the Lake Traverse Reservation with the Sisseton Wahpeton Oyate tribe, and this will be conducted jointly with North Dakota.

Third, we'll also continue to work with employers of essential and critical infrastructure. As a reminder, South Dakota first conducted mass testing in connection to the reopening of the Smithfield Foods facility in Sioux Falls – a critical infrastructure business. Thanks to the tremendous collaboration between the State Department of Health and Avera Health, we were able to test roughly 3,700 Smithfield employees and their families over a four-day period. This testing did produce an uptick in positive cases this week, but that was expected. Finding these positives is a good thing because it means that we can isolate these individuals, get them home, and get them healthy.

Please know that this testing will not replace the testing of symptomatic individuals—that will continue without interruption. Also, it's important to remember that mass testing is point-in-time specific—that means it's a snapshot of the situation at a given moment. If someone tests negative today, they may still contract the virus tomorrow. Because of this, testing is not a silver bullet in the fight against COVID-19, but it does help us understand the situation at a given time and isolate those who test positive.

With the science, facts, and data driving our decision-making, we will continue to adapt to this virus and the threat it brings to our state. Thank you, South Dakotans, for your continued diligence in this effort. Together, we will get through this.

BY MARLIN GLENDENING

Greetings from Esmond to all new and regular readers of this column. We provide reports from Esmond Township, Belle Prairie and surrounding areas, and wish the people of De Smet and Lake Preston success in their adventure into journalism.

Adeline Reilly had visits from her daughters Kathy and Pat and their families on Mother's Day.

Rick and Vicki Aughenbaugh had lunch with their son Cory on Thursday in Sioux Falls.

The Esmond Homecoming Sunday scheduled for June has been cancelled, and the Iroquois American Legion Memorial Day services will also not be held.

An 8th Grade Commencement program for Rosalie Wehlander was held Saturday May 16, at the Esmond Hall. The program consisted of a processional, introductions, welcome by her sister Hannah, commencement address by her brother Erik, conferring of degrees by her dad and mom and closing remarks by her dad. She received 2nd place in the American Legion Essay Contest and was awarded Iroquois Middle School Vocalist of the Year. The event was attended by family members.

Obituaries

Allan Duffy

Allan Duffy, 40, of Madison, S. D., passed away unexpectedly on Sunday, May 3, 2020, after experiencing a brain bleed.

Due to Center for Disease Control restrictions, a funeral service for immediate family only was held at 10:30 a.m. on Wednesday, May 6, at Weiland Funeral Chapel, Madison, S.D., with Father DeWayne Kayser officiating.

Allan David Duffy was born on July 30, 1979, to Michael and Cheryl Duffy in Sioux Falls., S.D. Due to his premature birth, Allan spent a significant part of his childhood in Sioux Valley Hospital, where he and his family made many lifelong friends.

The oldest of two boys, Allan graduated from Madison High School in 1999, and loved to cheer on the Bulldogs. He was a lifelong sports fan, serving as a student trainer for the Bulldog basketball team while in high school and as an umpire for little league baseball as an adult.

For the past 17 years, Allan owned and operated Madison Taxi Service, giving thousands of rides and making countless friends along the way. Known simply as "Duffy" to many, he was a constant and cheerful presence in the community, and he enjoyed getting to know his clients and keeping up with their lives.

More than anything, Allan believed in the importance of family. He was a devoted son, brother and uncle. He adored his nieces and would spend hours playing games with them and making them laugh. Allan will be remembered for his sense of humor, his kind heart and his love for the Minnesota Twins.

Allan is survived by his parents: Michael and Cheryl Duffy of Madison, S.D.; his brother and sister-in-law, Ryan and Elizabeth Duffy of Sioux Falls, S.D.; his nieces, Layna and Roslyn Duffy of Sioux Falls, S.D.; his grandparents: Bernard and Marlene Duffy of Lake Preston, S.D. and Elaine Bergheim of Madison, S.D.; and many special aunts, uncles, and cousins.

Her beautiful character has left her mark on all of us. We have better people because we have known her. Her determination, perseverance, patience and radiance in the face of insurmountable obstacles will never be forgotten. She was so happy to be able to go to school. Truly no one appreciated the opportunity more than she. In spite of her many absences, she maintained a B+ average. Although she was not with us very long, she is greatly missed and will never be forgotten." - A note from Kathy's teacher in 1960

SCHOOL BOARD

Salaries, renovations on hold with tight budget

BY MIKE SIEFKER
Kingsbury Journal

The De Smet Board of Education held its regular meeting Monday, May 11, with COVID-19 pandemic social distancing measures in place. Some board members called or video-conferenced into the session.

The board accepted the resignation of the girl's high school basketball coach Doug Osthus. Coach Osthus led the 2018-2019 girls' team to the State Championship. This year, the girls' team was headed toward the State Tournament with their winning record, but the season was never finished due to COVID-19 and the suspension of all athletic competitions.

Coach Osthus has developed an outstanding girls' basketball program that is recognized as one of the top programs in South Dakota," Superintendent Abi Van Regenmorter said. "His passion and dedication to basketball will leave a lasting impression in the District."

Coach Pat Wheeler resigned from cross country and April Rusche from One-Act Play. Other school personnel resignations included the counselor and several paraprofessionals.

BUDGET MATTERS

Business Manager Susan Purintun presented the board with the preliminary budget.

"The most important take away from this would be that we are using a zero percent increase in state aid at this time, as cautioned by the State with significant drops in revenues," Purintun said. "If the two percent increase comes through, then we will revise and consider reopening negotiations, but for now, there are zero increases for the staff until those numbers are secure."

In reviewing the preliminary budget for the De Smet School District, it is worth noting that the budget is limited by the information available at the current time. There are still many factors to consider before the final budget can be approved.

The District expects a decrease in total budget expenditures of $172,175 from the 2020 budget. According to Purintun, this is such a vague figure that it will most likely change with the proposed budget in July, and it would be better not to use the numbers when they are subject to so many changes at this point.

The expenditure budget is closely in line with the prior year. There were only small increases in the areas of health insurance and maintenance. The District does not expect increases in salaries unless the board sees that the funding will be on-going and maintain the increases.

The most significant change in the new budget was a decrease in capital expenditures due to the new funding formula mandated by the State. The District has decided to put a hold on the Laura Ingalls Wilder Elementary School and old gym area remodels so they can collect input from the public on how the expenditures will be funded. Concerns were addressed regarding the need for improvements at the elementary school, such as plumbing, heating and air conditioning needs, as the facilities are old. The board will continue to break the projects down into phases.

In reviewing the expected revenues for 2021, one of the main factors addressed was the possible change in state funding. At this point, the state officials are still busy trying to determine how the recent COVID-19 pandemic has affected state revenues.

The District expects a rollback of the two percent increase that was part of the package recently approved by the legislature. Depending on the Equalization Office's valuations, some people will see increases, and others may not understand that this is due to the Department of Revenue "equalizing our local taxes with the State Aid Formula."

De Smet will continue to use the $200,000 local opt-out in local ad valorem taxes. The difference between using the zero percent and two percent increase in state aid using the Department of Education's formula amounted to approximately $28,708. These numbers will vary pending final equalization approvals of land appraisals and valuations submitted by Kingsbury County.

The proposed preliminary budget also included possible Care Act dollars the state allocated based on Title funding. These dollars are to be used toward expenditures incurred by continuing education during the COVID-19 outbreak. Federal funding has not yet been changed as the District waits for further possible changes.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, the school board and administration gave high praise to all the teachers and students who have continued to work through all the challenges COVID-19 has presented.

"They've done a phenomenal job," said Van Regenmorter.

Lake Preston and De Smet schools will be sharing staff this next school year. Plans were approved by the board to share Kayla Vockrodt with Lake Preston as band teacher for both schools. Lynne Brown of Lake Preston will be the choir teacher for both districts.

"These shared positions allow both staff members to teach the content areas that they are most passionate about. It is a true win-win for both districts," Van Regenmorter said.

The school board is considering making the high school health class available to the eighth-grade students. Doing so will allow the freshmen the option of taking an elective instead of health their first year in high school. This matter will be voted on in the next board meeting.

The board approved the renewal of their property and liability insurance with Brian Bindert and EMC Insurance. The rates have gone up this year, but the board is confident in Bindert's advice on the company and the numbers presented. The school district has few options available for property and liability insurance companies due to past loss history. The board approved the insurance renewal.

Driver's Education was pushed back to June this year. There will be four days in classes, and the rest spent driving. Students who finish and test before July 1 will need to drive with an adult for 90 days. After July 1, that time will increase to 180 days. The class is still open for registration. Call the high school to register or for more information.

CITY COUNCIL

Occupancy limits for patrons are loosened in public places

BY JOURNAL STAFF

The De Smet City Councilors voted 5 to 1 during their May 13 meeting to loosen the limits on the number of customers to be allowed at one time in the bars, restaurants, health centers, entertainment venues and businesses of De Smet.

The Council determined at their monthly meeting to follow the guidelines of the National Center for Disease Control, and many other South Dakota communities, regarding reopening amid the COVID-19 safeguards and permit 50% of the businesses' normal occupancy allowance to be effective immediately. The Council had previously set a limit of 25 people, excluding employees, at each food/beverage establishment and at the De Smet Event and Wellness Center.

The motion by Councilor George Cavanaugh included that this rule would be in effect until the Council meets again at their regularly scheduled meeting on June 10. The restriction of 6 feet between tables still remains in effect. Councilman Jay Slater has remained opposed to the reopening of the businesses.

Discussion was held in regard to the reopening of City Hall and the City Library, and members decided that they remain closed until June 10 when it will be reviewed by the Council. The city restrooms and shower facilities will reopen at the parks.

A great deal of time and discussion was once again held on De Smet airport projects. Councilman Lowell Hansen requested that the city consider constructing a containment pad at the airport at a cost of $12,912 to protect from future contamination of any fluids and to establish a baseline for future testing. Slater spoke by video, agreeing that this would be a good investment for the future and would be more user friendly for aerial applicators, hopefully increasing the usage of the airport. He suggested that there could be possible financial assistance with the federal government's CARES Act. This discussion was tabled to gather more information.

A change order was approved for an increase in the Taxilane and Hardstand Improvement project at the airport with the understanding that this was still within the current grant that was received for the project.

Isaac Wilde appeared by video requesting to lease additional land for his aerial spraying business. Approval was given for a lease by Wilde of an 80 by 130-foot lot with care to be given to a recently seeded area.

Other action taken by the Council:

The Kingsbury Journal was selected as the official newspaper for the city.

Wes Clubb, manager of the summer baseball program, reported that youth baseball games will begin on June 4. The amount of $3,600 will be given to the program for supplies and pay for assistant coaches for travel and expenses. Background checks will be conducted for all summer recreation staff, including the baseball coaches.

Finance Officer Tracey Larson announced that the city was approved for a $565,000 State Revolving Fund loan for the water looping project to install approximately 2,040 linear feet of 6-inch water mains, installation of fire hydrants, valves, and street repairs.

Five building permit applications were approved, including three fences and two decks. An application by Jenney Grover for a small accessory house to be constructed in her backyard was denied, and two proposed additions for Troy Halverson will be given more review.

Rita Anderson reported the Development Corporation is moving forward on several projects, including the Kingsbury Journal, a new day care center and additional housing projects.

Councilor Hansen suggested studying the longevity of the water tower in town, which is almost 100 years old.

DEANN (WOLKOW) KRUEMPEL

I DON'T EVER REMEMBER having to do without toilet paper. Actually, I don't remember a time when my family did not have indoor plumbing.

The youngest of six, I came along at the perfect time to come along. My idea of bringing in the cows and using the little outdoor "facility" behind the house was totally different than the attitude of my siblings. I thought it was all great fun. Why? Because I never HAD to experience it. When that privy door clunked shut behind me (I can still hear the sound), that was where this five-year-old kid wanted to be.

Ours was fresh, new and state of the art! A cement foundation covered everything that needed covering. The small building had bright white siding and shingles on the roof. Inside was not just a two-holer, but a two-seater! On the right was a much shorter seat. Goldilocks would have given her stamp of approval— "Just right!"

Hinged covers concealed what... needed concealing. These smooth wooden boards were quite pleasant, only a hindrance when one was in an extreme hurry. There must have been small windows up at the top. I am not sure, because I never looked up, but how else could it have been so bright and cheerful? I could sit on the cover of the Goldilocks seat and read the Sears, Roebuck catalog that lay right next to it. I am sure it was for reading. For what other purpose would a catalog be in an outhouse?

One bright, sunny day, my mom was hanging clothes out on the lines that ran a few yards away from the outhouse. A perfect time for some catalog reading! Door clunked. Goldilocks would have been proud, but then I found something new on top of the Sears, Roebuck. Pink tissue papers, the ones that mom's canning peaches were wrapped in before she canned them. Little squares of pink that smelled like – peaches! Why were they here in my novelty reading room?

I grabbed one and headed out the door (clunk) to get Mom's take on the peach papers.

They say ignorance is bliss. Well, I was shocked! I could understand how that soft peachy tissue might be repurposed. But, the catalog? All I know is I did not spend as much time "reading" any more. Never again did I see the Sears, Roebuck catalog in the same light.

My next enlightenment on the subject of outhouses occurred several months later at a friend's grandmother's house. This time the visit to the little building was a necessity. The weathered door creaked as I tried to pull it shut. I trembled at the thought of the wind whipping it open. My eyes adjusted to the darkness that was slit into strips by the light that peeked in through the gaping cracks in the walls.

There was a choice of three holes of ascending size. Between the two smaller holes was a nearly-empty roll of toilet paper. Bracing myself with both hands, I managed to pull my body up, legs dangling, on the high seat over the smallest opening.

Suddenly, a gust of wind pushed through the opening on the door, tipping the nearly-empty roll of toilet paper. I watched in helpless horror as it rolled over and disappeared into the next hole. Frantically, I searched the mottled darkness for an extra roll. There was none. No peach tissues. No Sears, Roebuck. Wait! What was that down in the corner next to my feet? A small metal bucket filled with... corn cobs???

Just Cruisin'

Since the start of COVID-19, De Smet and surrounding communities have enjoyed Saturday Night Cruisin' as a fun way to see friends while social distancing and to support local businesses by ordering food or filling up with gas. Josh Buer of Lake Preston and some of his friends have been cruisin' in their hotrods several weeks in a row in Lake Preston, De Smet and even Howard. Join the fun as it continues at 7:00 p.m. Saturdays on Main. (Photo by Josh Buer)

De Smet Grads

Congratulations to our Class of 2020

Our 2020 graduates persevered as heroes through a spring where many spring activities they worked toward were cut short due to virus precautions. Prom, state FFA convention, state basketball tournaments, track, golf and a music trip to New York City and Washington DC were all cancelled.

Graduation ceremonies continue — with a few modifications— despite COVID-19

BY ABI VAN REGENMORTER

Graduations for the class of 2020 across the country have had significant changes due to COVID-19. Here in Kingsbury County, things are no different.

The De Smet School District graduation ceremony at 2:00 p.m. on Saturday, May 16 maintained a traditional format; however, modifications were still required. Audience members were limited to immediate family, and the ceremony was closed to the public. Graduates and the audience were socially distanced, hand sanitizer was used at the entrance, diplomas were presented without a handshake and masks were recommended. Grandparents, family members with compromised health and others not in attendance were encouraged to view the ceremony online.

The class colors were black and white while the class flower was a white rose dipped in gold glitter. Michelle Wiese gave the salutatory address, which included fond memories of their high school years. Autumn Wilkinson, valedictorian, delivered a speech that recognized the impact 9/11 and COVID-19 had on the class. The passing of the spade included Senior Class President Abigail Flood presenting the spade to Junior Class President Aria Gruenhagen. As graduates accepted their diplomas, individual scholarships and awards were also announced.

Following the ceremony, the graduates appeared along Calumet Avenue for a drive-through reception, though still socially distancing from each other. Community members were able to drop off cards or gifts during this time.

Congratulations to Our Class of 2020

Members of the LP senior class practice social distancing during graduation rehearsal. As Salutatorian Nicholas Curd shared in his speech, "We are the infamous class of 2020. Together, we've already made history."

Persistence is a theme as this class graduates despite cloud of COVID-19

BY DANA FELDERMAN

Graduations for the class of 2020 across the country have had to go through significant change due to the effect of COVID-19. Here in Kingsbury County, things are no different for the Lake Preston senior class.

At 3:30 p.m on May 16, Lake Preston seniors walked across the Lake Preston stage one last time to receive their diploma and to have their parents turn their tassel, signifying a completed job well done. The ceremony was broadcast through Lake Preston School Facebook Live for the rest of the community who could not attend. After they received their diplomas from administration, the Lake Preston Fire Department escorted the Class of 2020 in a parade around the Lake Preston community, so supporters could wish the seniors well as they begin their next journey.

"As their class motto states, 'A river cuts through rock not because of its power, but because of its persistence.' To me, there has been nothing more persistent than the Class of 2020," Lake Preston Superintendent Dana Felderman said.

Our communities could not be more proud of the Class of 2020, and we wish them the best of luck in their future endeavors.

Little known facts about gardening

With warmer temps and the itch to go outside and get your hands in the dirt, here are a few little-known facts about gardening.

- A sunflower is not just one flower; both the fuzzy brown center and the classic yellow petal are actually 1,000 – 2,000 individual flowers held together on a single stalk.

- There are more microorganisms in one teaspoon of soil than there are people on the earth. All those microbes keep your soil full of nutrients.

- Adding a little baking soda can help grow sweeter tomatoes. A regular sprinkling of this kitchen staple into your plants soil can help reduce acidity, which sweeten up your crop.

- Some of your favorite fruits are actually in the rose family: apples, pears, peaches, cherries, raspberries and strawberries are cousins to the long-stemmed variety.

- You don't have to be a dedicated composter to reap benefits. Applying used coffee grounds, eggshells, chopped up banana peels and other organic matter directly into your soil (no composting required) can offer your plants nutrients as they decompose. Just scatter and bury the items within the first few inches of the soil.

- From a botanical standpoint, avocados and pumpkins are fruits, not vegetables, because they bear seeds. Rhubarb, on the other hand, is a vegetable. And the average strawberry has 200 seeds, being the only fruit that bears its seeds on the outside.

Annual Property and Liability Insurance Review: Brian Bindert reviewed by conference call the District's annual insurance renewal. The company has made valuation adjustments including inflation guards. The overall increase was estimated at $3927. Mr. Bindert noted that the rate increases are considered "General rate increases" and that they do not reflect that the District has been irresponsible in handling of property or liability issues. The board members also reviewed the quote for cyber security in the amount of $440. The general liability umbrella will no longer extend over the District's workman comp policy it holds with ASBSD due to financial concerns. On motion by J. Tolzin, seconded by Norm Koehlmoos to approve the new insurance rate increases and include the cyber insurance. On roll call vote: D.Garry "aye", J. Tolzin "aye", N. Koehlmoos "aye", B. Asleson "aye", S. Roth "aye" - All voting "aye", motion carried NESC Report: Mr. Koehlmoos reported that most representatives participated by Zoom meeting. Due to that, the meeting took quite a lot longer with the roll call votes. Staff contracts have been issued with the COVID19 clause.

Education Enhancement Foundation: There was no business for the Foundation.

Facilities Committee: The facilities committee had nothing new to report. Supt. Abi will be in contact to see where Co-op Architecture is with the facilities assessment.

Legislative Report: The board heard that the latest news from Pierre is that the special session Governor Noem had planned on for June to review the downturn of state revenues due to the COVID19 closures, is now looking to be called for in September. There is concern that the legislature's increase to state aid could be revoked.

Principal's Reports: Princ. Armstead reviewed how Graduation 2020 will be conducted after several changes have been made over the course of the last few weeks. On May 16th, at 2 PM, twenty-one senior graduates will be honored. The ceremony will be as close to traditional as possible but also following CDC regulations. The service will not be open to the general public. The graduates are being allowed guests that they submitted for approval by the administration. There will be approximately 130 guests. Supt Abi communicated with graduates and their parents to advise family in the high-risk category to view the ceremony through the broadcast that is being provided by Valley Fiber. A videographer and photographer will be present to record the event for prosperity. Videos and photos will be available within a few weeks following the event. Following graduation, seniors have the opportunity to set up on Calumet Ave with their "baskets" to receive cards and gifts by friends and family in their vehicles.

Driver's Education has been delayed at this time until June. The instructor would like to do the class in person so the administration is looking at holding class in the gym so that

Continued from preceding page the students can be socially distanced. There are presently only 10 students signed up for the class but Principal Armstead expects the number to be more in the 18-20 range. If the District is able to complete classroom instruction by June 30th, the students will be regulated under law to drive with their parent/guardian for 90 days. After July 1st, that time is lengthened to 180 days.

Locker clean-up will take place on the 19th and 20th with students signing up for a time frame to do so. Supt. Abi praised the parents and students for doing a phenomenal job of keeping in touch and doing school work. E-learning has been a journey for all those involved and most of made the best of a situation that is not ideal. During the last two meal pick ups the numbers have been at 250 children. The cooks have prepared boxes for the students for 5 days of meals. Next week will be the last week.

Families may drop off final school work, supplies such as chrome books, library and textbooks at the elementary on May 20th from 9 AM to 6 PM. Parents with questions, should contact Mrs. Abi.

Preliminary Budget: Bus. Mgr. Susan Purintun presented the preliminary budget for FY2021. The proposed budget will be published the last week of June, with a hearing scheduled during the month of July and adoption at the September 14, 20 regular meeting. The presented budget includes increases to insurance, supplies and utilities. This budget does not include the 2% state aid increase and will be adjusted as further advice from the State comes through. The board will have the ability to reopen negotiations if they feel confident that the dollars will be on going in the future. The future enrollment for fall 2020 currently should be up by 6 students. At this time there are many variables yet to be decided specifically in the Capital Outlay Fund for facility improvements and transfers to the General Fund before the budget is set and adopted.

Public Hearing of Waiver: The board reviewed the waiver application High School credit before 9th grade for health class. By allowing 8th grade students to enroll in this course in 8th grade, it will give more flexibility for electives. This was the first reading of this waiver and will be considered for passage at the June regular meeting.

SDHSAA Amendments/ Representative Voting: Following review of SDHSAA Amendment #1 and board representatives, on motion by B. Asleson, seconded by J. Tolzin to vote for the following: Tom Culver of Avon as east river at large supt. representative and Marty Weismantel of Groton Area School for the Small School Group Board of Ed representative and "YES" on Amendment No. 1, which changes the number of practice days prior to the first contest. On roll call vote: D.Garry "aye", J. Tolzin "aye", N. Koehlmoos "aye", B. Asleson "aye", S. Roth "aye" - All voting "aye", motion carried.

Shared Band and Choir Instructors with Lake Preston: Supt. Abi reported to the Board that the shared services of band and choir instructors with Lake Preston has gone very well. The respective calendars have lined up well and the teachers are enthused with the new prospects.

OUTDOORS: Boats bring back many fond memories

Pepper, Jim Girard's loyal black lab, waits patiently in his homemade duck boat. Jim found plans online and learned how to build this boat out of wood and fiberglass. It has proven a very stable little boat that still floats 10 years later. (Photo by Jim Girard) bass boat. It had a 15 horsepower Evinrude tiller, front and rear casting platforms and the words "Bass-Turd" painted on the side. After he got off work, my dad would drop the "Bass-Turd" off into Lake Mitchell for me. A friend and I would often fish until it was nearly dark, and then we would motor back to the boat dock for pickup. It is a great memory and hard to believe our parents would allow it.

One weekend, my friend and I entered a crappie and bluegill tournament. We mowed lawns and collected aluminum cans to pay our entry fee, buy bait and build a make-shift livewell. We managed to pull out our limit of crappies and nearly our limit of bluegills (100 of each at the time) and placed sixth. We were obviously the youngest team and received quite a lot of fanfare with our finish. A funny memory about that day is our dad's complaining about cleaning all of those fish. For some reason, they trusted two kids to fish in a boat all day, but wouldn't let us use knives.

Since that first boat, I've always owned a boat of some kind. One of my most unique boat purchases was a 1964 steel pontoon boat. Shortly after college, I rescued it from a tree grove with one damaged tube. I had a welding shop repair the tube and put her back in service. The boat was built onto the trailer, so to launch I would back the boat into the lake, disconnect the hitch from the truck, pull a pin at the front of the deck and pull up the tongue. When the tongue was raised, the wheels underneath would retract into the bottom of the deck. It was a fun boat to play around with on small bodies of water. The most fun I had was at registration each year. The county courthouse always had a hard time understanding how with one title it could be a boat and a trailer and required two different types of licenses — one for traveling down the road and one for traveling across a lake. They were quite happy when I sold that boat, and it moved to another county.

I even took a stab at boat building. In 2011, most of my favorite duck hunting spots were way too deep for waders, and I decided to build a small duck boat. I found plans online and built a small plywood and fiberglass duck boat to hold the dog and me. During that process, I learned a lot about boat design and construction. There is no way I'm ready to build a power boat, but my little duck boat works well. This was one of those projects that, once completed, I couldn't believe I had actually built a boat, and it floated, and it still floats!

Launching my current boat still brings as much excitement as it did when I was a kid. The smell of the lake and two-cycle oil still brings back memories of my youth and the time I've spent fishing with family and friends. If you own a boat long enough, something is bound to go wrong. Motors break down, electrical systems fail; you may develop a leak. Boats do require a fair amount of money and time to maintain. I plan to own a boat until I'm an old man and know that the day I sell my boat won't be one of my happiest.

team would be one game away from the finals and seemed poised to make a run at yet another championship trophy.

The boys' team had been racking up an impressive record themselves. Finishing a strong season as the top-seeded team in the state, with only two losses to Sioux Valley and Canistota, they were looking to challenge Faith in the first round and hopefully making a run for the championship trophy that eluded them the previous season. With a roster full of strong athletes and a desire for the win, it seemed the boys were headed to another solid tournament appearance.

This was not to be, though, as the girls' basketball teams were called back home from their tournament and games left unfinished that Friday. What originally was called a postponement turned into a cancellation. With all spring sports being cancelled, it became evident that there would be no basketball tournament this year.

Although there were no finished tournaments this year, both Bulldog teams showed grit, determination and great effort throughout their successful seasons.

The seniors on both teams deserve special recognition for their leadership and enthusiasm.

Seniors on the girls' team include Reyna Beck, Emily Martens, Autumn Wilkinson and Michelle Wiese.

Seniors on the boys team include: Baylor Beck, Dom Hansen and Andrew Holland.

Regardless of the lack of a tournament to give them a chance to be officially crowned champions, their supporters will think of them all as 2020 champions.

Why My Boats Are Not for Sale

THERE IS AN OLD SAYING about the two happiest days of a man's life: the day he buys a boat and the day he sells it. I would never say that owning a boat isn't without challenges, but I believe the rewards far outweigh the troubles. I've got nothing against shore or wader fishing, and I do both many times in a season; however, I always prefer to be in a boat.

I come by my love for boats genetically. There are many fishermen in my family history. I have an old article from the Yankton Press & Dakotan about a barge that my great grandfather built to traverse the Missouri River before the dams were built. It was fabricated on steel drums and had a heated cabin with trap doors for fishing during cold weather. I never got to see his barge, but my great aunts and uncles have many stories to tell about it.

My grandpa was also a boat owner. I have incredible memories of fishing with him. He said the best thing about a boat is that, while traveling up and down the river, everyone waves. He believed in a comradery among boat owners. The same guy may not give you the time of day if you meet him on the street, but in a boat you are automatically friends.

My grandpa loved to fish and philosophize about fishing. He could never understand why when he fished from shore, he always tried to fish as far as he could out into the lake, but when he was in a boat, he always tried to fish as close as he could to the shoreline. It never made sense to him.

I still remember when my dad bought his first boat. It was a red and white fiberglass boat built in the late 50's and had a closed bow and windshield. The boat also sported fins like a Chevrolet of similar vintage. The old boat had seen better days when it arrived in our driveway, and my dad spent many hours cleaning, repairing and painting it. It wasn't the fanciest vessel on the water, but it served a great purpose for us to cruise the lake, fish and even learn how to water ski.

Before I had a driver's license (or a car), I bought my first boat. I was thirteen years old and managed to save up $300. I bought a 14' aluminum

AMERICAN LEGION BASEBALL

Practice Begins for Local Teams

South Dakota steps up after American Legion's national headquarters cancels 2020 season

BY KINGSBURY JOURNAL STAFF

American Legion National Headquarters decided to shut down all national sponsorship and involvement in American Legion baseball for the 2020 season.

One section of the decision left open to interpretation was whether local baseball could be supported. The American Legion Department of South Dakota received better interpretation on that section of the decision.

With the new information, the Department Executive Committee met and approved a motion, "to sanction a 2020 South Dakota American Legion Baseball Program to be administered by Sponsoring Posts, coaches and managers. These teams must follow the guidelines recommended by the State Athletic Commission which states 'Teams must abide by Local, State and National COVID-19 Policies, have insurance and have permission from City officials to play.'"

Since South Dakota is the birthplace of American Legion Baseball, it is only fitting to have a Legion Baseball season for 2020.
