The Lenfest Institute for Journalism
You need the news.

And now, more than ever, the news needs you.
One Mission

High-Impact Journalism
Quality, in-depth reporting remains the fundamental value proposition between local news organizations and their audiences. The Lenfest Institute invests in indispensable, public-benefit journalism for the communities it serves.

News Technology & Innovation
To survive and to thrive, local news enterprises must be nimble, tech-enabled and committed to constant innovation. Investing in the technical muscle of news organizations and introducing new tools improve customer experience, audience engagement and operational efficiency, all key to business sustainability.

Diverse, Growing Audiences
Diverse and inclusive newsrooms attract diverse and growing audiences. Our investments in newsroom diversity, community listening projects and multi-cultural news media address one of journalism’s biggest challenges and one of its greatest opportunities.

Donor Pyramid: Building the Pipeline to Loyal and Major Donors

- The base is the pipeline.
- Building the base is essential to having a pipeline to the top.
- We started at the top of the pyramid and are working our way down.
- We now have volume at all levels
Top of the Pyramid: Major Gifts

- Not about the business—about the mission and impact
- Project specific
- Project description, timeline and budget
- Impact, goals, benchmarks
- Research funders to find alignment with project
- Staff to staff or peer to peer
- Understand reporting requirements up front
- Report back to funders regularly on successes, failures and adjustments
- Thank, thank, thank
Middle of the Pyramid: Individual Annual Giving

- Not about the business—about mission and impact
- Not a transaction—a relationship
- Focus on the middle of the pyramid: “regular donors”
- Entry point for major gift prospects
- Essential way to get new individuals “under the tent”
- Donors contributing $2,500+
- Peer to peer
- Regular events, communication, stewardship
- Thank, thank, thank

IMPACT JOURNALISM

EDUCATION LAB

Building a team of journalists to bring attention to the education issues critical to the advancement of our community

The Fresno Bee
“California needs 1.1 million more workers with bachelor’s degrees by 2030 to keep up with economic demand.”

“More college graduates would mean higher incomes, greater economic mobility, more tax revenue, and less demand on social services.”

“In addressing this projected shortfall, three regions will play an especially critical role: Los Angeles County, the Inland Empire, and the San Joaquin Valley. Indeed, improving college outcomes in these regions could help close more than half the statewide skills gap.”

“Regional action towards these goals is essential to continue recent success and further improve educational outcomes.”
WHAT’S THE PROBLEM?

The San Joaquin Valley is beset with high poverty rates and a complex web of socioeconomic pressures. But chief among our challenges is chronic low educational attainment.

From pre-kindergarten through higher education, we trail state averages in many key metrics

Education is a Key Driver of Economic Mobility

Much good work has been done in recent years to address it, yet the gap persists. How do we change the trajectory and quicken the pace of advancement in educational outcomes?

The Bee has a plan to create greater awareness of the great work being done, the work that still needs to be done and the root causes of key issues. The solutions-oriented journalism produced by the Education Lab will monitor progress, bring accountability and amplify successes. The result will be a more engaged community - one that creates Fresno’s next generation of stakeholders, business leaders and public servants.
WHAT’S THE PROBLEM?

There is a disconnect between parents, community stakeholders & providers over the most pressing issues impacting early childhood development.

Of Fresno County adults age 25 & over 26.2% do not have a high school diploma - compared with 17.9% for the state. 80.3% do not have a Bachelor’s degree - compared with 68.0% for the state.*

The proportion of low-skill, low-income jobs in the Central Valley is well above the state average.

The State Center Community College system is underfunded and many students cannot get access to needed classes to complete 2-year degrees and programs. Facilities are not keeping pace with growth.

Fresno State, which has long operated under an open admissions model, is becoming more selective due to funding challenges. This further limits access to higher education for those in the Valley.

Us Census Bureau, updated on September 4, 2018, v1.1
WHAT WE’LL DO

We will report out and share an understanding of the root causes of the most pressing issues. We will monitor and report on progress in addressing these challenges.

By regularly surfacing stories about access to resources – from availability of early childhood programs to how community colleges can ensure a greater degree of success for their students – we will make access to education in the Valley a priority for key stakeholders and for more families.

We will recognize and celebrate progress as well as shine a light on persistent challenges and roadblocks.

Our goal is to create a broad conversation among parents, students, teachers and others in Fresno and the central San Joaquin Valley. We will do this by providing essential, solutions-oriented journalism and regular opportunities to engage and activate key stakeholder communities.
HOW WE’LL DO IT

- 1 deeply reported story a week, with video and photos that build understanding of the challenges, successes and opportunities in our education communities.

- 2-4 daily stories per week that leverage data, offer high-utility news or let readers know how they can engage.

- Publication across McClatchy’s five California news organizations – Fresno, Sacramento, Merced, Modesto and San Luis Obispo - as applicable. Critically, we will share this reporting with news outlets across the valley, including TV and radio.

- Monthly in-person listening sessions and stakeholder convenings.

- A quarterly webinar with policymakers, where we’ll share what we’re working on, what’s worked and to collect input on issues we should cover next.

- Public events in Fresno to put the spotlight on this topic. Regular listening sessions more frequently.
WHAT ENGAGEMENT MEANS FOR THIS LAB

We will hold community meetings with parents, students, teachers and education advocates to gather input and build toward activation.

We will experiment with new ways to feature community voices, including live chats, reader surveys and regular guest columns.

We will host public events in Fresno to put the spotlight on this topic.

In a quarterly webinar with policymakers, where we’ll share what we’re working on, what’s worked and input on the issues we should cover next.

A weekly Education in the Valley newsletter with relevant reporting from this effort and other organizations across the state.
HOW WE’LL DO IT: THE TEAM

ONE HIGHER EDUCATION REPORTER
How well does the system serve its Central Valley constituents? From industrial and technical training to university degrees, how are we preparing our future workforce?

ONE EARLY EDUCATION REPORTER
From the cost of quality childcare to how to improve graduation rates and parental engagement in schools, we’ll do solutions-oriented reporting on early education.

ONE ENGAGEMENT REPORTER
Will organize listening sessions with parents, students, teachers, local leaders and others through social media, regular events and outreach. Will support the work of the reporters through crowdsourcing and outreach to a broad cross section of the community.

ONE EDITOR
Will lead strategy, story plan, edit stories, oversee three reporters.
NEW PLATFORMS: LET’S LEARN FROM THE DIGITAL NATIVES

Our best asset is our people. We have an opportunity to work closely with Fresno State’s communications school as we look to both experiment with new models for journalism and welcome the next generation of reporters into local newsrooms. We will build a collaborative approach to sharing reporting and communicating with stakeholders across video, social and more.

This robust internship effort would bring 3 Fresno State students into the lab for 15 hours per week, per semester.

Each semester students will select and execute on a challenge related to reaching underserved digital communities.

Crescencio Rodriguez-Delgado is a 2019 Fresno State graduate and former Fresno Bee intern who is now a full-time reporter covering the California Divide with foundation support.
HOW WE WILL KNOW SUCCESS

When we’ve diversified our economy beyond agriculture and logistics, we will know success.

When the gap between K-12 graduation rates for neighborhoods north and south of Shaw begins to close, we will know success.

When access to community college and higher education improves for local students, we will know success.

When we see a broader understanding of the key issues and opportunities lead to a community that’s actively working together to solve its challenges, we will know success.

It’s about solutions.
WHAT IT TAKES TO LAUNCH A LAB

The investment: $300,000 for the education lab for one year.

Where the money goes: $60,000 higher education reporter, $60,000 early education reporter, $60,000 for engagement reporter, $75,000 for education lab editor, $45,000 for lab engagement and management, staff expenses and technology, and event costs. Salaries include benefits and 401(K) and salaries are equal to reporters in The Bee newsroom.

Of note: The project will enhance our reporting beyond what we would otherwise be able to do with existing resources and will bring new ways of engaging audiences to better inform.

How you can help: We’re looking for partners equally committed to advancing our community through education. Your contribution will support this important effort to bring greater awareness to education in the region and help drive needed change.

Timeline: September 2019 Education Lab announcement.
WHAT FUNDING PARTNERS GET

- Regular communication from the news organization, including a quarterly meeting with the Publisher accompanied by a quarterly lab impact report that measures micro, medium and macro impacts.

- A Lab newsletter that sources all relevant news – from Fresno and beyond.

- Invitations to community listening events with our new reporters and their assigning editor.

- A special page with recognition for all funders at FresnoBee.com.

Editorial independence has been a core value at The Fresno Bee for nearly 100 years. We strive to deliver high-impact journalism in the public interest. While we value the support and partnership of our funding partners, outside funders will not have any editorial oversight, approval or influence over the content produced by the fellow or other members of the Fresno Bee newsroom.
WHAT FUNDING PARTNERS GET, CONTINUED

- Signage including sponsor banner at events.
- A tagline on all stories that denotes how the lab works and who supports it, with a link to lab landing page.
- An bi-annual report that includes micro, medium and macro impacts.
- Greater awareness of our educational challenges and opportunities in Fresno, which in turn creates a stronger and more diversified community and economy.
The Central Valley Community Foundation, through the Impact Media Fund, will serve as the fiscal sponsor for the Education Lab. To support this important initiative donations can be sent to this address:
