Will standardized tests become one ACT?

ACT tests could be used to evaluate students and teachers if the legislature approves.

Hill ready to introduce measure to replace TNReady program

> By Zach Vance Press Staff Writer zvance@johnsoncitypress.com

The bane of most teachers and students, standardized testing in Tennessee has dealt with its fair share of problems in the last two years since TNReady was implemented.

Just last month, Department of Education Commissioner Candace McQueen announced she will once again reconvene her 31-member task force to work on improving TNReady, but state Rep. Matthew Hill, R-Jonesborough, said he's over the task force's recommendations.

During a meeting with the Johnson

City Board of Education last week, Hill indicated he would file a bill this upcoming session making the ACT the only standard for high school teacher and student evaluations, as long as no other lawmaker has already filed similar legislation.

Currently, all high school students are required to take either the ACT or SAT to graduate, but their performance is measured through end-of-course

TNReady tests.

"We have nine courses at the high school that we have to give an end-ofcourse (test) in, and our teachers are being told to ride two horses, in effect," Dr. David Timbs, Johnson City Schools' supervisor of secondary and instructional technology, told local legislators.

"ACT translates into dollars. It translates into AP scores and it translates into dual enrollment. There is just so much frustration at the high school from teachers who want to keep their eye on the ACT, but they're being told, 'You've got to keep your eye on this end-of-course test because this is tied to your evaluation (and) tied to your ood Samaritan Ministries is inviting community members to "Be a Light" this Christmas for more than 1,100 Northeast Tennessee children, teens and seniors in

The ministry's Christmas assistance program for poor, low-income and homeless families and individual in nine area counties focuses on teens and children who are not eligible for other holiday gift-giving programs and on children whose parents are incarcerated. The program is designed to provide a platform for local churches, businesses and individuals who wish to share the love of Christ during the celebration of his birth by sponsoring a family or an individual child, teen or senior who will be without gifts.

Be a Light Cards with the first names, ages, clothing sizes and, in some cases, gift wishes of the children, teens and seniors, are available for those who wish to take part in the shopping, or sponsorship donations may be made to the ministry to cover the cost of

Good Samaritan's goal is provide a new outfit of clothing, a pair of shoes, a winter coat, socks and underwear, basic toiletries and an age-appropriate toy or gift to every child and teen; and a blanket, toiletries, cleaning supplies and warm winter hats and gloves to every senior.

While all gifts and monetary donations of any amount are helpful, Good Samaritan Executive Director Aaron Murphy said a $150 sponsorship will allow the ministry to pro-

If you've had a beer with a Depot Street Brewing Co. Label, odds are that beer was brewed by Devin Rutledge.

Rutledge did not start out intending to brew beer for a living. In fact, his original job at one of the Tri-Cities' first breweries involved him driving the delivery

A: So, I actually started brewing before it was legal for me to consume alcohol. What I realized was that I could buy hops, barley and yeast and not have to have

How should West Walnut Street be redeveloped by Johnson City?

Paid consultants are preparing the first phase of a master plan for the redevelopment of the West Walnut Street corridor in Johnson City.

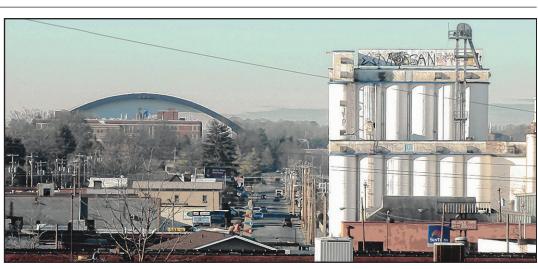

West Walnut Street task force last week their firm will spend the next four months putting together a public infrastructure master plan, which is intended to improve the street's aesthetics, traffic flows and pedestrian usability.

The Johnson City Commission voted in November to award Kimley-Horn a $221,500 contract to begin creating the master plan.

David Coode said his team will also be assessing West Walnut Street's utilities, storm water management and environmental issues throughout December and January. Coode said Kimley-Horn will complete an economic redevelopment and transportation assessment before meeting again with the task force and city staff in February.

Christ and the time of year we take upon ourselves the opportunity to give to those we love.

"We realize there are many who do not have the opportunity to not only to give but to receive, and we want to provide that opportunity."

Of the 1,100 individuals

registered for the program, more than 800 were still without sponsorships early Friday and 200 more were on the ministry's still-growing waiting list. The gift distribution is set to begin Dec. 20, and the ministry is asking those who wish to adopt a family or an individual child, teen or senior to shop for to bring their gifts to the ministry by Wednesday, Dec. 13.

For those who do not receive sponsorships, the will assemble ministry smaller gift boxes for which donations of new clothing and age-appropriate gifts are needed. The most needed items are gifts for teen boys and girls, such as selfie sticks, earphones or earbuds, cosmetics, beauty products and fragranced lotions for girls and sports balls of all varieties for boys. Volunteers to help pack and distribute the gifts will be needed daily through the end of the distribution and may drop by the ministry at 100 N. Roan St. or call Volunteer Director Vicki Bradshaw at 928-1958 for information. Jessica and Mike Whitson helped in the distribution last year, and this year selected a family of five children, ages 9 to 17, who did not receive sponsorships last year. The Whitsons' dropped off their gifts — seven large plastic bags packed full and two brand new trail bikes on Friday and will be back to help in the distribution. "It's nice to able to give back when you can," Jessica said. "There were a lot of kids last year, a lot of families. All of these kids were ones that didn't get picked up last year. Some of them only wished for blankets. It's sad to think of a kid whose only wish for Christmas would be a blanket.'

"We did get them blankets. But we got them some toys and fun things to play with too," Mike said.

For food for the families Murphy said Good Samaritan will be distributing large boxes of nonperishable items, hams, cleaning supplies and paper products as well as fully prepared meals for seniors, veterans and disabled adults in a Christmas food outreach that will include well over 3,000 people. For those who wish to help with the food, a $35 sponsorship will provide a food box for one family or a prepared meal for a senior. veteran or disabled adult.

According to Murphy, the food distribution is a repeat of the same holiday food outreach Good Samaritan conducted at Thanksgiving with 100 percent sponsorship from the community. To each of those sponsorship contributors and to those who will "Be a Light" for their community through their participation in ministry's Christmas assistance program, he said, "We truly thank and appreciate every community supporter of our efforts of giving to our neighbors in need." Good Donations to Samaritan earmarked for Christmas may be made online at goodsamjc.org or by mail to Good Samaritan Ministries, P.O. Box 2441, Johnson City, TN 37605.

Athletes, entertainers rally to support bullied Knoxville boy

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

KNOXVILLE Tennessee woman's video of her tearful son recounting being bullied at middle school has prompted a wave of support from athletes and entertainers.

Kimberly Jones said in a Facebook post Friday she had just picked up her son, Keaton, from school because he was too afraid to go to lunch.

In the video, Keaton said other students call him ugly, make fun of his nose and tell him he has no friends. He said milk was poured on him and ham was put down his clothes.

"Just out of curiosity, why do they bully?" Keaton said.

"What's the point of it? Why do they find joy in taking innocent people and find a way to be mean to them? It's "People that are different Twitter, Tennessee Titans tight end Delanie Walker invited the Jones family to an upcoming game, while University of Tennessee wide receiver Tyler Byrd said he and several teammates plan to visit Keaton at school.

Country music star Kelsea Ballerini tweeted that the next time she comes home to her native Knoxville, she wants to be with Keaton to witness the bullies apologize. Retired race car driver

Dale Earnhardt Jr. said on Twitter he wants Keaton to "add me to your long list of friends," and Snoop Dogg said on Instagram that Keaton "has a friend for life" and that "love is the only way to beat hate."

Q: What are some of the other things that you and your wife do?

A: Some of the things that we like to do together as a family is hiking. I think I showed you the picture of him in the hiking backpack. I was really excited about that. We were kind of amateur waterfall hunters. We would go around to local waterfalls. I know we've been to over probably 100 waterfalls since we started hiking. We usually try to stick on the day hikes. After allegations, Moore avoids spotlight, questions

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

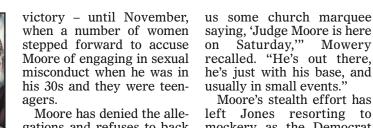

MONTGOMERY, Ala. -Republican U.S. Senate candidate Roy Moore has been a rare sight on the traditional campaign trail in the days ahead of a critical U.S. Senate race. He's appeared at only a handful of rallies in front of friendly audiences and steadfastly has shunned reporters from the mainstream media.

Moore's past campaigns have never been heavy on public appearances, but his relative absence from the spotlight this time has been noticeable.

Moore has focused on meeting with small groups of supporters and an aggressive social media campaign out of camera range as he tries to win Tuesday's election against Democrat Doug Jones – a contest that was supposed to be an easy GOP gations and refuses to back down.

Dodging the mainstream spotlight is classic Roy Moore, according to Alabama campaign consultant David Mowery. Moore did the same when he campaigned for Alabama Supreme Court chief justice in 2012, when he defeated Mowery's client, Democrat Bob Vance.

"We never knew where he was and then we'd get a picture from somebody showing saying, 'Judge Moore is here on Saturday," Mowery recalled. "He's out there, he's just with his base, and usually in small events."

Moore's stealth effort has left Jones resorting to mockery as the Democrat crisscrosses the state trying to pull an upset in Tuesday's special election, buoyed by the possibility that enough Republicans will abandon the 70-year-old Moore in the wake of the allegations.

"Roy Moore is in hiding. He's kind of like the groundhog. He comes out every so often to see if he can see his shadow," Jones said Saturday in Selma during one of several stops this weekend.

JERUSALEM — French and Israeli leaders sparred verbally Sunday over the U.S. decision to recognize Jerusalem as Israel's capital, while new violence rippled across the region following the move by U.S. President Donald Trump.

In Jerusalem, a Palestinian stabbed an Israeli security guard, seriously wounding him in the first attack in the volatile city since Trump's pronouncement Wednesday. In Beirut, scores of Lebanese and Palestinian demonstrators clashed with security forces outside the heavily guarded U.S. Embassy, and Arab foreign ministers meeting in Cairo demanded that the United States rescind the decision.

The move upended decades of U.S. policy, and a longstanding international consensus, that the fate of Jerusalem be decided in negotiations. Israeli and Palestinian claims to the city's eastern sector form the emotional core of their conflict, and Trump's announcement was seen as siding with the Israelis and has drawn wide international criticism.

At a meeting in Paris with Israel's visiting prime minister, French President Emmanuel Macron condemned recent violence against Israelis. But he also expressed "disapproval" of Trump's decision, calling it

"It doesn't seem to serve, in the short term, the cause of Israel's security and the Israelis themselves,' Macron said.

He urged Israel to freeze its construction of settlements on occupied lands and called for other confidence-building measures

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, who has called Trump's decision "historic," said Israel has maintained its capital in the city for 70 years and the Jewish connection Jerusalem goes back 3,000

New evacuations ordered as huge fire flares up

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOS ANGELES — A flare-up on the western edge of Southern California's largest and most destructive sent residents wildfire fleeing Sunday, as windflames churned fanned through canyons and down hillsides toward coastal towns.

Crews with help from water-dropping aircraft saved several homes as unpredictable gusts sent the blaze churning deeper into foothill areas northwest of Los Angeles that haven't burned in decades. New evacuations were ordered in Carpinteria, a seaside city in Santa Barbara County that has been under fire threat for days.

"The winds are kind of squirrely right now," said county fire spokesman Mike Eliason.

"Some places the smoke is going straight up in the air, and others it's blowing sideways. Depends on what canyon we're in.'

The department posted a photo of one residence engulfed in flames before dawn. It's unclear whether other structures burned. Thousands of homes in the county were without power.

Firefighters made significant progress Saturday on other fronts of the enormous fire that started Dec. 4 in neighboring Ventura County. Containment was way up on other major blazes in Los Angeles, Riverside and San Diego counties.

Forecasters said Santa Ana winds that whipped fires across the region last week would continue in some areas at least through Monday evening.

A lack of rain has officials on edge statewide because of parched conditions and no end in sight to the typical fire season.

"This is the new normal," Gov. Jerry Brown warned Saturday after surveying damage from the deadly Ventura fire. "We're about ready to have firefighting at Christmas. This is very odd and unusual."

High fire risk is expected to last into January and the governor and experts said climate change is making it a year-round threat.

two-part column concerning memorable Christmases of yesteryear, most being from the 1940s and 50s. I was an only child and considered spoiled.

I recall a very large evergreen tree located on East Myrtle Avenue near Baxter Street on the Fairview Avenue side that was beautifully decorated for many years at Christmastime. Does anyone recall who owned this tree or where it was relocated? It still resides firmly in my memory.

Tennessee Eastman Co.

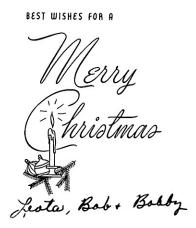

During one Christmas while my dad was overseas during the war, he received a black and white Christmas card from Tennessee Eastman.

It showed a picture of the plant at night facing the former Building 75 near the Holston River.

The caption contained these words: "The lights are still burning at Tennessee Eastman this Christmas lights of hope and good cheer - lights of welcome awaiting your safe return. With best wishes from your company."

The two chief officers of the plant, P.J. (Pearly) Wilcox and James C. White (president) both signed the card. I have no idea whether this card actually made it overseas or came directly to our apartment. It was probably the latter. I found it in my Grandma Cox's scrap-smell a Christmas tree and remember those trees from the mid to late 1940's. The tree was placed in the living room along the east wall in the corner adjacent to the kitchen.

I have photographs of those early years showing the tree and some of the gifts under it. Christmas was always a special time for my family. We seemed to go a little extra at Christmas time even thought we could not really afford it.

Overwhelming odds bring brave sacrifice

Elizabethton man dies while giving squad cover fire, earns Distinguished Service Cross

> By John Thompson Elizabethton Bureau Chief

ELIZABETHTON — This week marks the anniversary of the start of the largest and bloodiest battle in the history of the United

The country suffered 89,500 casualties and 19,000 deaths in the Battle of the Bulge.

One of those deaths was Stokes Taylor, a man who grew up at the foot of Buffalo Mountain, near the point where the boundaries of Washington, Carter and Unicoi counties intersect.

Stokes was a member of one of the most distinguished families in the area. His relatives included two governors of Tennessee, Bob and Alf Taylor, and Brigadier Gen. Nathaniel Taylor of the War of 1812.

Unlike those relatives, Stokes would not have several decades to build a successful career, but what he did at the moment of his death would bring more honor to his family He was posthumously awarded the highest medal awarded to any Carter Countian in World War II, the Distinguished Service Cross.

Stokes also became a hero to a cousin born after the war. Kenneth E. Huffman wrote "Bridges to the Past: an Adult reflects on Childhood," about what he heard about Taylor while he was growing up.

Huffman remembered his Uncle John Taylor and Aunt Lillian Taylor lived on a farm on Rock House Road "at the base of Buffalo Mountain, about six miles from Johnson City.'

He said John and Lillian had a big family. Huffman said the oldest, Jack, did not see military service because of a physical problem. Two of the brothers, Bob and Clyde, were too young for service during World War II. Clyde would serve in the Korean War and later in Vietnam before his retirement. Bob would retire from the United States Air Force."

Huffman said the family had twin boys, Ben and Bill. Ben served in the Army and was wounded in the Netherlands. Bill wanted to join the Navy, but was killed by a drunken driver before he could enlist.

Another brother did join the Navy. Jimmy served in the Pacific and became the first brother to die in the war when his ship, the U.S.S. Quincy, became the first ship ship sunk in the First Battle of Savo Island on Aug. 8-9,

The Navy had just landed Marines on Guadalcanal, and the naval battle was the first response of the Japanese Navy to the American offensive.

The Quincy, a heavy cruiser, was in the thick of the battle and was hit several times by shells and torpedoes before sinking bow first, taking Jimmy and 369 of his shipmates to the floor of the channel that would soon become known as "Ironbottom Sound" because so many ships would be sunk during the fight for Guadalcanal. Two of her sister heavy cruisers, Vincennes and Astoria, would join her on the bottom that

Two brothers volunteered for airborne duty with the Army. Stokes served with the 82nd Airborne and David with the 101st Airborne. Only a few mounts after the loss of Jimmy, the Taylor family would soon see another son in a combat zone on the other end of the world, in In the fall of 1942, Stokes began his combat service in North Africa. The 82nd's path would lead from North Africa to Sicily to Normandy and the Netherlands.

Stokes was a member of the 80th Airborne Anti-Aircraft Battalion. Its guns were an important asset when the Luftwaffe planes were a threat to the paratroopers, but a new and just as important use was found for the guns when the Luftwaffe was grounded.

Instead of pointing at the sky, the guns could be lowered to point straight at tanks.

That would be the role Stokes was in on Dec. 21, 1944. The Germans had broken through American lines five days earlier. Their mission was to rush to the Meuse River, establish a bridgehead and then head north to capture the port of Antwerp.

Stokes and his unit were in the way of the first objective, getting across the Meuse River. The spearhead armored force, led by Joachim Peiper, had already been turned back by U.S. Army engineers. They had destroyed the bridges across the Meuse before the Germans could reach them.

The Germans were now searching for alternate ways to get across when the action involving Stokes took place. Stokes' anti-tank squad placed their gun on a hill that covered a road leading into Trois Ponts, Belgium.

While the position was strong from the front, the Germans attempted to get around it by sending soldiers around the wooded area to the north. They got through and opened heavy fire on the squad and platoon leader Jake Wirtich.

Stokes grabbed a Browning automatic rifle and began firing at the Germans, yelling at the members of his squad to get away while they could. Lt. Wirtich remained with the antitank gun and fired at the tanks on the road.

Stokes kept firing his weapon, covering the retreating men until they reached safety. The narrative for the Distinguished Service Cross he received said that "with complete disregard for his personal safety, and with full knowledge of the overwhelming odds against him, Corporal Taylor raked the hillside with intense and accurate fire which prevented the enemy from gaining the edge of the woods to fire on his anti-tank squad as they effected their withdrawal. After his ammunition was exhausted, Corporal Taylor was seen to be hit by enemy rifle fire."

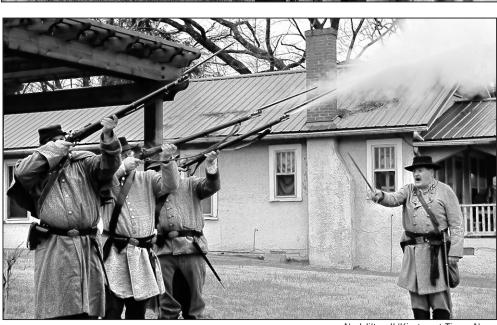

Lt. Wirtich also died at his anti-tank gun and would receive a Distinguished Service Cross. The men who withdrew were able to get away. For the second time in the war, John and Lillian Taylor had lost a son, and for the second time there was not even a body to bury. That would change in 1949.

Huffman said in his book that a man searching for war relics at the site of the battle came across a set of American dog tags. Further investigation uncovered skeletal remains. Through dental records, Stokes was identified. He was finally buried at the cemetery at Mountain Home.

THE BATTLE OF KINGSPORT

Ned Jilton II/Kingsport Times-News

A gathering of hearty souls braved the cold at Netherland Inn on Saturday for the annual commemoration of the Battle of Kingsport. John Byington, with the John S. Mosby Camp 1409 of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, told the story of the Dec. 13, 1864, battle that took place on the north fork of the Holston River and became a Confederate defeat after Union Col. Samuel K. Patton, from Kingsport, led the U.S. 8th East Tennessee Cavalry up river to another crossing and then down behind the Confederate lines to attack from the rear. Following the speech, an honor guard under the command of Rick Ragle fired volleys in salute. From top, an honor guard waits for the command during the ceremony and fires after Ragle gives the order.

Years of bailouts fail to help sister who's drowning in debt

DEAR ABBY: My only sister has been "borrowing" money from me every month for years. She has a ton of credit card debt and cannot afford to meet her monthly financial obliga-

Last year my husband and I paid her property taxes for her so she wouldn't lose her house. It was over $5,000. She promised to pay us back with her tax return money, but we never saw a dime.

I have given her information on debt consolidation programs and offered to pay for her to file bankruptcy, but she has done nothing to improve her financial situa-

She works and makes OK money. Her husband is disabled, but gets Social Security and a small pension. She also supports her adult child, who doesn't work, and she smokes like a chimney.

I have told her many times that I can't keep giving her money, but she still asks every month. This is causing a strain in my marriage. I don't know what else to do. Any words of advice would be appreciated.—TIRED

DEAR TIRED: You are a caring sister, but what you have done out of love and charity has allowed your sister to continue living beyond her means. The next time she asks for money, remind her that you have already given her information about debt consolidation, and that you will no longer continue pouring your and your husband's hard-earned money down a bottomless pit. Then stick to your guns.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I, 21 years happily married, have a recurring problem. It rarely happens, but when it does, it causes an argument.

A recent example: Late the other evening, my husband, adult daughter and I were returning home from a hockey game in separate cars due to our work schedules before the game. There are several routes to get home from where we were. I followed my daughter, while my husband took a different route to get home faster.

I think it would have been a chivalrous and fatherly thing for him to follow us and make sure we made it home safely. I got angry that he didn't do it, and it turned into a huge argument. My grown daughters and I are fiercely feminist and independent, but I still think it would have been the caring thing to do. My own father would, even after I was 40, and he still does it to this

It didn't bother my daughter, but it bothered me. What are your thoughts, Abby? If you think it's not an issue, I will let it go from now on.— TO FOLLOW OR

DEAR TO FOLLOW: Your father comes from a generation in which men were taught it was their duty to protect the females in their family. Your spouse is the husband of a fiercely feminist wife and the father of a daughter cut from the same cloth. Independent women do not need to be followed home unless they request it because they assume they can handle whatever happens themselves—particularly if they are traveling in twos. You can't have it both

You say you have a happy marriage. Please give your husband a break.

Lacking Christmas spirit? Just blame the dog ...

December, it hit me that something was missing at our house -Christmas spirit.

The next-door neighbors have installed festive lights and an inflated snowman. We don't have so much as a

No tree. No lights. No big red bows.

Not a single jingle, as far as bells go.

So what or who is to

The "phones"

It continues to boggle my mind that each member of my family now carries around a tiny device that is at once a telephone, messaging machine, stereo, television, theater, arcade, and computer.

Ditching cable was supposed to provide more family time and reduce screen time. All it really reduced is the screen size. Instead of gathering in front of the large screen in the living room, our three teenage daughters now isolate themselves in the personal viewing booths that are their bedrooms.

CLOSE TO HOME

Didn't they get those blasted phones for Christmas a few years ago? Bah! Humbug!

No "TV Guide"

Since we watch so little regular TV these days we're not tuned in to the schedule or advertisements for those key Christmas-spirit triggers, the classic holiday specials: "A Charlie Brown Christmas," "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer," "Frosty the Snowman." I can't remember when I last watched one of those.

I suppose we could pull up "Rudolph" on our phones, but it wouldn't be the same. Someone probably would call or text in the middle of "We Are Santa's Elves."

The dog Dogs get blamed for all kinds of stuff. This is no exception. I cannot recall our dog, Max, ever being nearly as excited over Christmas as he gets when someone is snacking from a box of Cheez-Its. To him, Christmas morning is just a big bowl of distraction to get in the way of a potential belly rub.

I think Max might actually hate Christmas. No way that kind of attitude does not rub off on the rest of us.

The bug

That awful stomach virus that traveled back with us from the Ohio Thanksgiving was a real bummer. During the week that we traditionally bring home and decorate a tree, three of us were busy driving the porcelain bus. Nothing kills a festive feeling like "tossing the Christmas-colored M&Ms."

The barn

While we are waiting for our new house to be constructed, most of our possessions, including the Christmas decorations, are stored in the barn at my mother's farm. We are beyond ready to be able to find something without digging through boxes with one hand while holding a flashlight in the other.

My wife

Sharon traditionally initiates and carries out the Christmas decorating. She suffered the most during "bug" week, however. And she's clomping around in an orthopedic boot because of a torn tendon in her foot. Not a good time for her to go poking around in a dark barn searching for the tree

OK, it's my fault

Blaming the stuff above is silly. If we're going to have a tree, it's up to me. I drive a pickup truck, for crying out loud.

I might even get a pair of reindeer antlers for Max to wear during the decorating. It won't help him appreciate Christmas, but he'll do anything for a Cheez-It.

Who are the people in your Neighborhood (Advisory Commission)?

Kingsport group aims to strengthen neighborhoods

> By Matthew Lane Kingsport Times-News

KINGSPORT — Kingsport has officially created a neighborhood advisory commission, which was one of the five major initiatives to come out of the One Kingsport visioning process two years ago.

The commission has three main responsibilities: to strengthen neighborhoods, provide a communication channel between the neighborhoods and the city, and to advise the city on solving various problems within the community. The Board of Mayor and Aldermen last week approved the appointments to the 12-member board. Here's some information about the folks serving on the commission, according to biographical information provided by them to the city.

Lora Barnett (Colonial Heights) is a community volunteer and currently provides contract services to the Kingsport Chamber of Commerce working on fund-raisers and the annual chamber dinner. Previously, Lora was a paralegal and court administrator for several attorneys and a judge in criminal and chancery court for 15 years. Angela Braan (Midtown) has lived in Kingsport since 2015. She and her family relocated from Washington D.C./Maryland/ Virginia area, where she was born and raised. Angela served four years in the U.S. Army and currently owns Cassia's Salon and Spa in Kingsport.

Al Crymble (Holston Hills/ Cliffside) is a life-long resident of Kingsport, former systems engineer for IBM and following retirement started a small company, MidRange Inc. His community activities over the years include working with Volunteer Kingsport, the Rotary Club of Kingsport, Netherland Exchange Place Association and the Kingsport Board of Zoning Appeals. Jennifer Egan (Green Acres) was one of the original Trashbusters at Fun Fest, a graduate of Leadership Kingsport and one of the people who helped found Rascals in downtown Kingsport. Jennifer is currently working to establish a neighborhood association for Green Acres. Ted Fields (Fall Creek) born and raised in Grundy, Va., and spent years working for BB&T Bank, eventually rising to the position of vice president. Ten years ago, he joined TriSummit Bank and then in May started working for Pathway Lending. He has served on a number of boards in the community, including the United Way, the chamber, Keep Kingsport Beautiful and the Rotary Wallace Grills (Borden Village) has worked at Eastman Chemical Co. and Tele-Optics, both as an ISO and safety coordinator and has chaired the Workforce Investment Board for the state of Tennessee. Wallace has been involved with the Boys and Girls Club, Girls Inc., the United Way and the Alliance for Business and Training. Janice Irvin (Preston Forest) is a graduate of Milligan College and ETSU and currently the principal of Kennedy Elementary School in Lynn Garden. Irvin describes herself as someone who values communication and relationships.

Jackson Jamie (Edinburgh) along with her husband started a local construction company (Jackson Jones) in 1998, then became a special education teacher in 2000. Jamie has directed weddings on the side for the past 20 years and three years ago became the on-site wedding director for the Chateau Selah wedding venue in Blountville.

Deborah Mullins (Cooks Valley) grew up in Kingsport, graduated from ETSU and the University of Tennessee and began teaching in Blount County. She moved back to Kingsport in 2008, began teaching at Dobyns-Bennett High School, but after caring for her 98-year-old grandfather, she found a passion in serving the elders of our community. Mullins is currently the director of sales and admissions coordinator both Preston Place and The Village at Allandale. Margot Seay (Preston Woods) currently serves on the Tennessee Commission on Aging and Disability, the First Tennessee Area Agency on Aging and Disability, Healthy Leadership Kingsport Board, the Kingsport United Way Aging with Choices Vision Council, Second Harvest and the Kingsport

Hunger Task Force. Jessica Slaughter (Midtown) lives in Kingsport with her husband, Matthew, and both were born and raised in the Model City. The couple have three children, and Jessica serves as the PTO president at Lincoln Elementary School and volunteers as a Girl Scouts troop leader.

Spencer (Ridgefields) is a retiree of Eastman Chemical Co. and an active realtor with Blue Ridge Properties. Spencer is an elder at Waverly Road is better.

They want to ride their e-bicycles

Business rolls out batterypowered bikes with grant

KINGSPORT TIMES-NEWS

BIG STONE GAP, Va. — A new small business in Wise County offering battery powered e-bikes to rent for use on the region's mountainous trails is a recipient of a $15,000 Seed Capital Matching Grant, a new funding program by the Virginia Coalfield Economic Development Authority.

Southwest Virginia Outdoors, LLC co-owners Bobby Bloomer and Lorenzo Rodriguez of Big Stone Gap worked with Tim Blankenbecler, director of the Small Business Development Center at Mountain Empire Community College, to prepare the Seed Capital Matching Grant application.

The dollar-for-dollar matching grants in the VCEDA program are designed for businesses three years old or younger with fewer than 10 full-time employees. Bloomer said he and Rodriguez, bicyclist enthusiasts themselves, created the business to take advantage of a growing interest in trail cycling and the new trail networks developing in the region.

"Average bike riding customers are usually in their 40s or older," said Bloomer, "and mountain e-bike model.

The e-bikes are good for riding 15 to 20 miles, depending on how much the rider switches into and out of battery power with a switch on the handlebar.

Bloomer and Rodriguez are using the VCEDA grant money to purchase a fleet of e-bikes they plan to transport to festivals and other special events at biking trails across the region.

Titans bounced from AFC South lead

Stout defense not enough as Tennessee offense sputters in loss

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

GLENDALE, Ariz. — Phil Dawson hasn't had the greatest season and missed another field goal on Sunday. He made the other four, though, all the offense the Arizona Cardinals needed in a 12-7 victory that knocked the Tennessee Titans out of first place in the AFC South.

Dawson connected from 47, 23, 32 and 35 yards and missed from 40 for the Cardinals (6-7), whose victory came two weeks after they beat then-AFC South leader Jacksonville on the same field.

"It wasn't our most fancy or nifty offensive performance I've ever been a part of," Arizona's Larry Fitzgerald said. "But it's a win and we'll take them."

The Cardinals intercepted Marcus Mariota twice in the second half after the Titans (8-5) nursed a 7-0 lead at Mariota completed 16 of 31 passes for 159 yards. Tennessee managed 65 yards rushing against the Cardinals after gaining 198 on the ground in a win over Houston a week ago.

Mariota was 6 of 16 for 60 yards with two picks in the second half.

"Frustration is an understatement," Mariota said. "Defense played lights-out, special teams did their job and I've been hurting our team. I've got to find ways to be better.'

Mariota said he hurt his knee in the first half when he didn't slide soon enough to protect himself, but he wouldn't use that as an excuse for his performance.

The Cardinals gained 64 yards in the first half and 197 in the second.

Blaine Gabbert completed 17 of 26 for 178 yards for Arizona with no interceptions, but was sacked eight times, most by a Cardinals quarterback this season. Kerwynn Williams rushed for 73 yards as Arizona, Ray Judy coached five sports at Science Hill, including a successful run as golf coach from 1977 to 2000.

Coach who helped make Science Hill a golf powerhouse died Friday at 79

> By JEFF BIRCHFIELD Press Staff Writer jbirchfield@johnsoncitypress.com

Ray Judy coached multiple sports at Science Hill High School, but it was the golf course where his teams often parlayed low scores into great heights.

Judy, who died Friday at age 79, was remembered as someone quick to share a funny story and a smile, but one who also made a serious impact on Science Hill athletics and the Johnson City community. The Hilltoppers already boasted a strong golf tradition including the 1959 boys' state championship when Judy took over the program in 1977. But he set them on a course for the boys' team to win two more titles under Coach Mike Poe in 2001 and 2003. The Science Hill boys finished runner-up five times in Judy's 23 seasons at the helm, and the girls were state runner-up in 1983.

In Judy's last season as head coach in 2000, Science Hill's team of Richard Lowe, Derek Adams, Chris Halkowitz, Jimmy Humston and Mo Littleford finished just one stroke behind Hardin County at the Class AAA state tourna-

"When I think of Coach Judy, I think of a big-time personality and his love of golf, especially at Science Hill," said Josh Carter, who served as an assistant to both Judy and Poe before becoming head coach in 2006. "In 2000 when we went to the state tournament, it was my second year at Science Hill, but I still remember how he got each of the kids a ball mark with the Tennessee flag on it. He took pride in playing at the state tournament and took pride in the kids having a chance of playing for the state champi-

Judy's influence didn't end when he retired as coach. He played an important-behindthe-scenes role throughout the rest of his life as current Science Hill coach Kevin Vannoy explained.

ETSU's Bo Hodges soars for one of his many dunks Sunday in a win over Hiwassee. Hodges had 18 points in just 10 minutes of action.

Hodges erupts for 13 points in 113 seconds as Bucs roll

By Joe Avento Press Staff Writer javento@johnsoncitypress.com

Bo Hodges didn't need a lot of playing time on Sunday to do a lot of playing.

Hodges, a freshman forward for East Tennessee State, scored 18 points in 10 minutes as the Bucs rolled past Hiwassee, 94-48, in a nonconference basketball game at Freedom Hall.

"I'm getting comfortable and everything's slowing down for me," Hodges said. "That's fun. My team has confidence in me and that's also Hodges had most of his fun when ETSU coach Steve Forbes put on a full-court press late in the first half. A flurry of steals led to a 25-4 run for a 48-17 halftime lead.

During a remarkable stretch of 113 seconds, Hodges scored 13 points on four dunks, two layups and a free throw.

It all started with a steal by Peter Jurkin, who threw the ball to Jermaine Long. Long found Hodges breaking to the hoop for a dunk. Hodges stole an inbounds pass under the basket and dunked again.

Bucs can't catch up after falling behind early

FROM STAFF REPORTS

HOUSTON — Jasmyne Harris scored 28 points and grabbed 10 rebounds to lead the Houston women's basketball team to an 88-69 win over East Tennessee State on Sunday afternoon

inside HP&E

Arena. The Lady Cougars (8-2) scored the first five points of the game and never trailed against the Bucs (6-5). Houston had a 23-14 lead at the end of one quarter and it was 46-31 at the half. It was the sixth straight win for the Lady Cougars, who have their longest winning streak since the 2010-11 season when Tianna Tarter had 19 points and five assists to lead ETSU, which struggled from the field, hitting just 20 of 65 shots. The Bucs made only 20 percent of longer shots, just 5 of 25 from 3-point range.

they reeled off 17 straight victories.

Making it more of an uphill climb, Houston held a 52-34 rebounding advantage. Angela Harris and Serithia Hawkins each contributed 12 points to the Cougars' victory. Shy Copney scored 15 points, and Erica Haynes-Overton added 10 points for ETSU, while Brittney Snowden barely missed double figures with nine. Malloree Schurr, who is from nearby Montgomery, Texas, led ETSU with seven rebounds. But her inspired play wasn't nearly enough against a Houston team which led by as many as 25 points in the second half.

ETSU will travel to NC State to take on the Wolfpack on Thursday before coming home on Saturday to host Michigan State.

MILLIGAN ATHLETICS

Miller leads UNCA past Milligan

ASHEVILLE, N.C. — Raekwon Miller hit 4 of 6 3-point attempts and led North Carolina-Asheville with 19 points as the Bulldogs overwhelmed the Buffaloes of NAIA member Milligan College, 97-60 on Sunday.

The victory gives UNC Asheville 14 straight wins at home.

The meeting was the first between the former NAIA rivals since the 1995-96 season and counted as a regular-season win for the Bulldogs and an exhibition loss for the Buffaloes. MaCio Teague added 15 points for UNC

Asheville (6-4), while Donovan Gilmore added 13 points and grabbed 16 rebounds. The Bulldogs were 31 of 67 from the field (46 percent), including 11 of 26 from 3-point range (42 percent).

UNC Asheville will take a week off, returning to host Western Carolina on Sunday.

David Casaday knocked down 4 of 9 from deep and finished with 16 points to lead Milligan, while Aaron Levarity added 12 points and seven rebounds.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

Sun Devils shock No. 2 Kansas

LAWRENCE, Kan. — Tra Holder scored 29 points on 8-for-16 shooting, and No. 16 Arizona State pulled off a 95-85 upset of No. 2 Kansas on Sunday.

Shannon Evans II had 22 points and Remy Martin added 21 for the Sun Devils (9-0), who marched into Allen Fieldhouse and overpowered the Jayhawks (7-2). Arizona State shot 50 percent from 3-point range and 50.8 percent overall to hand Kansas its second straight loss.

After a slow start that forced coach Bobby Hurley to use a timeout less than two minutes into the game, Arizona State snapped back into it, trimming the deficit to just three points at halftime. The Sun Devils outscored the Jayhawks 58-42 in the second half. It was another strong performance for Holder, who entered averaging 20.3 points per game. He had seven assists in addition to his 29 points. Lagerald Vick led Kansas with 25 points. Devonte' Graham added 19 points and eight assists. COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Iowa's Jewell wins Lott Trophy

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. — Josey Jewell of Iowa has won the Lott IMPACT Trophy as the college defensive player having the biggest influence on his team. The other finalists were Micah Kiser of Virginia, Harrison Phillips of Stanford and Minkah Fitzpatrick of Alabama. Jewell received the award Sunday night from Ronnie Lott at the Pacific Club in Newport Beach. It goes to a player with strong academic work, community involvement and team leadership. The senior linebacker from Decorah, Iowa, had 136 tackles, 13.5 tackles for losses and 11 passes broken up this season. He was an All-Big Ten selection and also was an academic All-Big Ten selection, with a 3.0 GPA

as an environmental studies major.

Stricker, O'Hair win QBE Shootout

NAPLES, Fla. — Steve Stricker provided the pep talk and Sean O'Hair delivered the shot to secure victory Sunday in the QBE Shootout. Stricker and O'Hair closed with an 8-under 64 for a two-shot victory over Graeme McDowell and Shane Lowry, effectively clinching it when O'Hair made an eagle on the par-5 17th hole at Tiburon Golf Club. In the final round of better ball, Stricker and O'Hair rallied from a two-shot deficit on holes and were ahead by one shot heading to the reachable 17th with the green guarded by a huge bunker with a vetted, waist-high wall. O'Hair hit 7-iron from 195 yards over the bunker and it bounced onto the green about 12 feet away. The American star, who won the downhill title at the 2010 Vancouver Games but missed the 2014 Sochi Games due to injury, jarred her back Saturday early in a World Cup super-G on the same St. Moritz course, and completed the race in obvious pain in 24th place.

Late Saturday on Twitter, she described the injury as "an acute facet (spinal joint) dysfunction," though she had not had an MRI. Vonn added Sunday: "I need to take care of three games while averaging 17.3 points. "He's emerging as a talent," said Forbes, whose team improved to 6-3 with its fourth consecutive victory. "He's got confidence. He has a really high basketball IQ. It's exciting for him to play that way. I hope for our fans, it's going to be exciting for the next four years."

Grand theft

By the time the final horn sounded, the Bucs had 22 steals, four shy of the school — and Southern Conference — record set in 2004 against Union.

"We wanted to get the intensity of the game up," Hodges said. "And that's what we did."

ETSU forced 27 turnovers against an overmatched opponent. Bradford and Pavne each had four steals, while Long and Andre Edwards had three apiece. 'We went to pressure and obviously they didn't handle it very well," Forbes said. "I think we have a team that can press. We just haven't used it a lot." In addition to Hodges' quickstrike scoring, the success of the press might be the main thing the Bucs get out of Sunday's game. "You figure out who to play at what spots when you're getting ready to press," Forbes said. "Some guys are better at it than others. We'll go back and look at who was in the game when that occurred."

and everybody goes home with a smile, ready for finals." Interestingly, everybody on the team played more minutes than Hodges.

"Honestly, I didn't know how much I played," Hodges said. "I knew it wasn't a lot.' By the numbers

Freshman center Mladen Armus had 10 points and seven rebounds for ETSU, which shot 47 percent after a 56-percent first half. Long finished with six assists and eight points in 14 minutes. For much of the game, it Eagles quarterback Carson Wentz left Philadelphia's win over the Rams after suffering a knee injury while being tackled trying to fight his way into the end zone.

Wentz injured in Eagles' win

Sources: MVP front-runner suffered season-ending ACL tear

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOS ANGELES — Carson Wentz threw for 291 yards and four touchdowns before leaving with a knee injury and Jake Elliott kicked the go-ahead 33-yard field goal with 3:45 left for the Philadelphia Eagles, who beat the Los Angeles Rams 43-35 in a thriller Sunday to clinch the NFC East title.

Two sources familiar with the injury tell The Associated Press that doctors believe Wentz has torn his left anterior cruciate ligament and will miss the rest of the season and playoffs.

Wentz needs an MRI to confirm the severity of the injury.

Wentz was hit hard as he dived into the end zone on a play that was called back because of holding. He stayed in the game and threw a 3-vard touchdown pass to Alshon Jeffery four plays later to give the Eagles a 31-28 lead.

Nick Foles replaced Wentz on the next drive for Philadelphia (11-2).

Bills 13, Colts 7, OT ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. — LeSean McCoy scored on a 21-yard run with 1:33 left in overtime to over secure Buffalo's win Indianapolis in a wintry, white-out setting best suited for snow shoes and sled dogs. McCoy finished with 156 yards rushing and topped the 1,000-yard mark for the sixth time in his career on a slick, snow-covered field.

The Bills' sideline erupted after touchdown, McCoy's numerous players running on to the field to either make snow angels or engage in celebratory snowball fights.

Jaguars 30, Seahawks 24

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Blake Bortles threw two perfect passes for touchdowns and Jaydon Mickens set up another score with a 72-yard punt return.

The Jaguars (9-4) intercepted three passes by Russell Wilson, including two on deep balls, and won for the sixth time in their last seven games. This victory, coupled with Tennessee's loss at Arizona, moved Jacksonville atop the AFC

It's the first time since 2010 that the Jaguars have had the outright division lead this late in a season.

Chargers 30, Redskins 13 CARSON, Calif. — Philip Rivers passed for 319 yards and two touchdowns, and the Chargers continued their ferocious playoff push with their fourth straight victory.

Tyrell Williams caught a 75-yard touchdown pass and Hunter Henry had another scoring grab for the Chargers (7-6), who have won seven of nine after an 0-4 start to their relocation season.

While outscoring their opponents 131-53 during their winning streak, the Chargers also moved above .500 for the first time since September 2015 with a dominant offensive performance against Washington.

Packers 27, Browns 21, OT CLEVELAND — Brett Hundley threw a 25-yard touchdown pass to Davante Adams in overtime as the Packers rallied from a two-touchdown deficit in the fourth quarter.

Cleveland fell to 0-13 and made too many crucial mistakes to break into the win column.

On third-and-6, Hundley threw a short pass to Adams, who broke a tackle and went in untouched with 5:05 left as the Packers (7-6) won in overtime for the second straight week — and third time this season. The Packers have stayed alive in the playoff race without Rodgers, who has been out since Oct. 15 with a broken collarbone, but is expected to play next Sunday

Chiefs 26, Raiders 15

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Kareem Hunt ran for 116 yards and a touchdown and the Chiefs shut down Derek Carr and his offense to snap a four-game losing streak.

The suddenly stingy Chiefs (7-6) also made a big statement in the crowded AFC West race. They are tied atop the division with the Chargers; the Raiders are 6-7.

Alex Smith threw for 268 yards and Charcandrick West had a touchdown run for the Chiefs, who held the Raiders without points until Marshawn Lynch's 22-yard run with 8:51 to go.

Panthers 31, Vikings 24 CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Jonathan Stewart ran for 103 yards and three touchdowns, and the Panthers snapped the Vikings' eight-game winning streak.

Cam Newton threw for a touchdown and ran for 75 yards as the Panthers (9-4) racked up 216 yards on the ground against the league's No. 2 ranked defense to pull even with the Saints atop the NFC South standings.

Carolina sacked Case Keenum six times and forced three turnovers to keep the Vikings (10-3) from clinching the NFC North divi-

Cowboys 30, Giants 10 EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Dak Prescott threw three touchdown passes and the desperate Cowboys spoiled Steve Spagnuolo's debut as interim coach, as well as the return of quarterback Eli Manning to the Giants' starting lineup.

Prescott threw a go-ahead 20-yard score to tight end Jason Witten with 7:38 to play. Rod Smith scored on an 81-yard pass play with 4:08 left and added a 15-yard scoring run a little more than a minute later after an interception by Sean Lee.

Broncos 23, Jets 0 DENVER — The Broncos snapped their longest losing streak since joining the NFL in 1970 thanks to wide receiver Demaryius Thomas' big game and a return of Denver's stingy defense.

Trevor Siemian threw for 200 vards and his favorite target was Thomas, who caught eight passes for 93 yards and a touchdown as the Broncos (4-9) avoided tying their franchise futility record of nine consecutive losses set way back in 1967.

Lions 24, Buccaneers 21 TAMPA, Fla. — Matthew Stafford passed for 381 yards with an injured throwing hand and set up Matt Prater for a 46-yard field goal in the closing seconds.

Stafford made his 109th consecutive start despite being limited in practice after his right hand was stepped on during the previous week at Baltimore. He completed 36 of 44 attempts against the Bucs (4-9), and the Lions (7-6) overcame two interceptions and a fumble to stop a two-game losing streak.

49ers 26, Texans 16

HOUSTON — Jimmy Garoppolo threw for a career-high 334 yards and a touchdown to help the 49ers to their second straight win.

Garoppolo again showed that he could be the answer for the 49ers (3-10) at quarterback, going 20 of 33 in his second start for the team. Acquired before the trade deadline from New England, Garoppolo threw for 293 yards in his debut last week to help the 49ers to a 15-14 win at Chicago.

Bears 33, Bengals 7 CINCINNATI — Rookie Mitchell Trubisky threw for a touchdown and ran for another in his best showing yet, and the Bears ended a five-game losing streak with their most lopsided victory in five years.

Jordan Howard ran for 147 yards and a pair of touchdowns as the Bears (4-9) dominated a matchup of the NFL's worst offenses. Their rookie quarterback took full advantage of an injury-depleted defense, completing a season-high 25 passes out of 32 attempts for 271 yards. He also ran 4 yards for a score.

Morris, Trammell make Hall of Fame

Pitcher, shortstop broke into majors together in 1977, were teammates for 13 seasons in Detroit

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. — Fittingly, Jack Morris reached the Hall of Fame in extra innings.

Morris was elected to the Hall by its Era Modern committee on Sunday along with former Detroit Tigers teammate Alan Trammell, completing a joint journey from Motown Cooperstown.

The big-game pitcher and star shortstop were picked by 16 voters who considered 10 candidates whose biggest contributions came from 1970-87. Morris got 14

They will be enshrined on July 29, and fitting they'll go in together. They both began their big league careers in 1977 with Detroit and played 13 seasons alongside each other with the Tigers.

"The time that I've spent wondering if this day would ever come seems to be vanished and erased right now because it did come, and it's amazing.'

Trammell felt overwhelmed.

"I came to realization that it might not happen, and I was OK with that. I really was," he said. "If people thought it was a tad short, I could live with that."

Former catcher Ted Simmons fell one vote shy, and former players' union head Marvin Miller was five short of the 12 needed.

"It's not a big surprise," Miller's son, Peter, said from Japan. "I think my father's place in history is understood by all baseball players, all baseball fans and the general public."

Morris had 254 wins and seven more in the postseason, including his 10-inning shutout in a 1-0 win for Minnesota over Atlanta in Game 7 of the 1991 World Series. Morris also pitched for World Series winners in Detroit — with Trammell, in 1984 — and Toronto in 1992. His 3.90 career ERA tops Red Ruffing's 3.80 as the highest of any pitcher in the Hall. His 175 complete games included 20 in 1983. The entire big league total this year was 59, and no pitcher had more than five.

Trammell was a steady presence in the middle of the diamond while playing all 20 of his seasons in Detroit, 19 of them next to double-play partner Lou Whitaker.

A six-time All-Star and four-time Gold Glover, Trammell scored 1,231 runs and drove in 1,003. He batted .285 with 185 home runs and a .352 on-base average — he walked 850 times and struck out 874.

TITANS

ranked last in the NFL in rushing, outgained Tennessee on the ground

Cardinals coach Bruce Arians improved to 7-1 against the AFC South.

"I know what everybody is going to say. 'It's an ugly win," Arians said. "There is no such thing."

The game's lone TD came after Andy Lee's 33-yard punt gave Tennessee the ball at the 50. The Titans needed nine plays, Derrick Henry sweeping right and diving at the pylon on the 6-yard touchdown play in the second quarter.

Mariota directed the Titans on a drive from their 26-vard line to the Arizona 40 in the final 49 seconds of the half, but Ryan Succop's 58-yard field-goal try bounced off

Arizona took the second-half kickoff and, despite Tennessee getting two sacks, got a 47-yard field goal from Dawson to cut the lead to 7-3. Then came a big Tennessee gamble.

After the subsequent kickoff, the Titans faked a punt on fourth-and-1 from their 35. Initially, officials ruled that Eric Weems had made the first down. But Arians challenged the spot and, after a review, it was determined the runner came up a few inches short.

Tennessee coach Mike Mularkev said he probably got "a little over-aggressive" with the fake punt call.

But, he said, "We should have got it. I thought we had it. Both officials had the mark as a first down. I was standing right behind them. I don't know how it got overThe Cardinals took over and Dawson's 23-yard field goal cut the lead to 7-6.

Dawson missed a 40 yarder that would have given the Cardinals the lead with 12:04 to play. But the 42-year-old kicker would get another chance. Rookie Chad Williams ran 33 yards on an end-around to ignite an eight-play, 71-yard drive that culminated in Dawson's 32-yard field goal to put Arizona ahead 9-7 with 5:59 to play.

Josh Bynes intercepted Mariota over the middle on the next possession and returned it 25 yards. A late-hit penalty against the Titans play moved the ball to the Tennessee 7. Jurrell Casey's second sack of the game forced vet another field goal by Dawson, good from 35 yards to finish the scoring

The Titans will stay in the desert and practice next week at Arizona State University to prepare for next Sunday's game at San Francisco.

Fitz moves up

With his 23-yard catch on the Cardinals' first possession of the second half, Fitzgerald moved past his boyhood idol Randy Moss into third place on the NFL career yards receiving list, trailing only Terrell Owens and Jerry Rice. Fitzgerald was a ball boy for the Vikings and used to wash Moss' cars for cash, and even borrowed his BMW to go to the high school

Injuries

The Titans lost starting left tackle Taylor Lewan in the second quarter with a lower back injury. Arizona outside linebacker Gabe Martin left in the first quarter

tradition and 'Lady Vols For Life,' Warlick said. "We take that really, really seriously. A lot of programs are the same, but I think what separates Tennessee is our alumni and the love they have for this program. The former Lady Vols take a lot of things personal. They're competitive. But they've been nothing but positive with this group. I was excited they could be here to watch a big win for us." Nared collected 23 points and 13 rebounds as Tennessee never trailed. Russell added 15 points and 12 rebounds, and Tennessee freshman Evina Westbrook had a career-high 15 points.

Nared made both free throws to provide some breathing room.

"Tennessee was just tougher than we were today," said Texas guard Lashann Higgs, who scored 15 points.

Jatarie White, Audrey-Ann Caron-Goudreau and Brooke McCarty all fouled out for the Longhorns. Jordan Hosey didn't return to the game after getting hurt in the third quarter, and Ariel Atkins missed a key stretch of the fourth quarter with an injury. Atkins returned in the last three minutes and scored a team-high 21 Texas coach Karen Aston criti-

"Since I've taken over golf, he's been a quiet voice of support, got a lot of alumni involved in the program," Vannoy said. "He's always kept up with the program and always promoted the golf guys going into the (Science Hill Athletics) Hall of Fame. You could tell he really appreciated his time with the program.'

Judy, who was first hired to supervise the school's weight room, was inducted into the Science Hill Athletics Hall of Fame in 2013. He coached five sports, including cross country, track and football, and was an assistant on the 1979 Science Hill football team which went undefeated during the regular season and reached the second round of the playoffs before losing to Oak Ridge.

Carter pointed out that Judy was often a trusted voice when new selections were made for the Hall of Fame. His words on behalf of former 'Topper wrestler Kendall Murphy led to Murphy being announced for this year's class.

Judy played college football at Wingate University, and served as a high school football coach at Gordon Military Academy in Georgia before coming to Johnson City. Carter recalled visiting Judy's house and seeing some of the clippings of his exploits. He also remembered the pride that Judy had in operating an old-school gym in downtown Johnson City for 40

"He was a tremendous athlete," Carter said. "He had photos where he could do amazing feats on a trampoline. He was a college football player and had his own gym downtown. That was a big part of his life." Vannoy fondly remembered another big part of his life when Judy served as the clock keeper for Science Hill basketball. As a young teacher and coach, Vannoy

He was about hard work, whether it was the weight room, on the football field, keeping the clock or golf. His personality was being happy-go-lucky, but he was also a serious competitor who strived to achieve." Visitation will take place from 5-8 p.m. Monday at Tetrick Funeral Home. The funeral service will be at Tetrick at 11 a.m. with graveside services at Monte Vista Čemetery. Friends and family will then meet at Doubletree Hotel from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. to share some Ray Judy stories.

NEWS OF THE WEIRD

Noooooo, we're good, thanks

· People Different From Us: Chengdu, China, street barber Xiong Gaowu offers a most unusual service at his roadside location in Sichuan province. For $12, Xiong will scrap the inside of his customers' eyelids using a straight razor, according to Reuters. Xiong suggests being "gentle, very, very gentle" when performing eyelid shaving, or "blade wash eyes," as the technique is known in Mandarin. A Chengdu ophthalmologist, Qu Chao, says shaving may unblock moisturizing sebaceous glands along the rim of the eyelid, leading to a more comfortable and refreshed feeling. "If he can properly sterilize the tools that he uses, I can see there is still a space for this technique to survive,"

· Uncontained Excitement: Traffic slowed to a crawl on I-95 in Palm Beach County, Florida, on Nov. 21 as President Trump's motorcade arrived for the Thanksgiving holiday. Author and sportswriter Jeff Pearlman was among the delayed drivers, but things turned weird when "these people (kept) get-ting out of the car dancing," he posted in a Twitter video. WPTV reported that Pearlman recorded the people two cars in front of him emerging from their car and twerking on the highway, then jumping and dancing around enthusiastically before getting back in the

A Project Of Johnson City Press

37 YEARS OF SHARING 1980-2017 Christmas comes once a year but the need is all year long.

A $35 donation will provide a plentiful food box with enough contents for a traditional holiday dinner and several other nutritious meals.

You can donate online by going to jcpchristmasbox.com or mail your gift to: Johnson City Press - Christmas Box P.O. Box 1387 - Johnson City, TN 37605 For more information call Ron Tipton at 929-3111 ext. 302
